STATE IN SEEKING INDUSTRIAL WILL SAY HALL-MILLS JURY SHOWS PREJUDICE

Members Alleged to Have Called Mrs. Gibson 'Liar' and to Stand 9 to 3 for Acquittal.

HOTEL KEEPER SAYS HE HEARD THEM TALK

Prosecutor Jolted When One of Own Witnesses Attacks "Pig Woman's" Reputation for Veracity.

By the Associated Press.
SOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 30.—It is the announced intention of special prosecutor Alexander Simpson to request a mistrial in the Hall-Mills murder case at the conclusion of the State's rebuttal testimony today. Charges have been made that the jury is prejudiced.

A letter from Gilbert A. Van Dorn, owner of the hotel where the murders are quartered, and 12 affidavits which Simpson says he has obtained in support of the letter, was the basis of the charges. Van Dorn, who claims to have heard conversations of the jurors, says in his letter:

"Several of the jurors are openly hostile to the State, and have been so since the day the trial started. I have heard Juror 'A' say in my presence, 'Simpson is lying, and I don't believe a word he says.' The same juror told me and told me that the court officer with me, that Mrs. Gibson is lying. I would not believe her on any account."

These remarks were made both before and after Mrs. Gibson testified. Longanatto and I told him that I was an honest woman with a good reputation."

Showing Up Hudson County.

Van Dorn also declared that several of the jurors have objected to Simpson's importation into Somerset County from Hudson County to conduct the State's case, that they intend to show up Hudson County when they get through that they cannot come here and run things."

"The conversations of the jury held in their own rooms with doors open," the letter states, "frequently the jurors named, and one of the others, discuss the case with unauthorized persons and Mrs. 'A' has discussed Mrs. Gibson's reputation with M."

Van Dorn says the jurors stood by to three for acquittal before Simpson's testimony of Mrs. Jane Gibson, key witness for the State, that they referred to her as "that liar," spoke of Simpson in "market language," one of them admitted a verdict in 20 minutes, that they spent some of their money "bolstering after taxes."

Van Dorn says he signed the indictment that it was typed by Herbert B. Mayer, a reporter for the York Mirror, the tabloid paper that instigated reopening of the case after four years.

Says Jurors Slept in Court.

The 12 affidavits, obtained by Simpson's announcement, charge that some of the jurors slept during the trial and that they have announced that their verdict was made up before hearing testimony. Telephone calls to the jurors have been permitted the last few days, it is alleged, and their opinions have been relayed outside their living quarters.

Before the trial, Simpson asked for a jury from another county, alleging prejudice in Somerset County, but his request was denied. Simpson's threat to ask for a mistrial took the defense by surprise, since it expected a quick verdict. Timothy N. Pfeiffer, one of the defense counsel, said: "In an event of a mistrial, we could stand, at the opening of the new trial, that our clients had been in jeopardy, and move that a new trial be dismissed."

The report is that the jury favors Simpson by 11 to 1.

Fifi Widener eloped in 1920, when she was 17, with Leidy, who was 19. The young pair were married by their parents and were happy until last year. Then news of the divorce came with as much surprise as did news of the elopement. Mrs. Leidy has custody of the one child of the union.

BRITISH STRIKE IS OPPORTUNITY FOR HIGH COAL PRICES

But Coal Trouble Abroad Is Not Justification for Increases in This Territory, Operator Says.

INCREASED DEMAND HELPS OPERATORS

Probability of Car Shortage and Storage by Large Consumers Other Factors Advanced by Expert.

The resident consumer of Illinois coal, who has sustained three price increases totaling $1.25 a ton for the better grades since September, likely will be spared further increase, in the opinion of W. K. Kavanaugh, president of the Southern Coal, Coke and Mining Co., and former president of the Fifth and Ninth District operators. On the other hand, it is unlikely that there will be any reduction in price, at least for some time.

The factors which tend to reduction in price are counteracted by other factors tending to prop the market and the high price factors seem the stronger. Among them, enumerated by Kavanaugh, are the following:

1. The fortuitous and continuing unusual demand for Illinois coal brought about indirectly by the British coal miners' strike, when their cost of production exceeded the market price.
2. The desire of the operators to maintain, if possible, the higher prices to recoup losses suffered during the summer months, when their cost of production exceeded the market price.
3. The probability of a seasonal car shortage, which tends to prevent the supply equaling the demand.
4. A beginning on the part of large consumers to store in the belief that a cessation of mining is inevitable on April 1, when the operators' present wage contract with union miners expires.

Small Mines Now Complete.

"There was a softening in the market early this week," Kavanaugh added, "but continuing cold weather stiffened it."

A slight hope for decreased prices lies with the owners of small mines. They have seized the period of high prices to open their long idle smokeless, coking small, however, and it is unlikely that they can "ruin" the market which can be protected by larger operators through cautious production.

One operator who would not comment to use of his name analyzed the market very frankly. "In recent years," he said, "the market for Illinois coal has been sharply restricted. Chicago, once a large consumer of Illinois coal, lately has been turning to higher grade, so-called smokeless, eastern bituminous coal. Eastern operators have made Chicago and its surrounding territory a dumping ground of their surplus."

Old Customers Regained.

"Likewise, Illinois has lost many customers in Iowa, Wisconsin, Minnesota and other northern states, yielding to the competition of Kentucky's non-union fields. Day pay in the Illinois field is about $7.50; in Kentucky it is $5 or less. Kentucky operators, with a high grade coal, have been able to make their lower production costs more than offset lower freight rates from Illinois fields. Hence, they have captured a considerable trade area that once belonged to Illinois."

"This was the situation that prevailed, as usual, in September of this year. Then the British, because of the idleness of their mines, called upon eastern United States for coal. The effect was instantly to increase the price in the eastern fields and to stop Eastern shipments to Chicago. Thereupon, Chicago, casting about for relief, fell back to Southern Illinois coal. That was the first good fortune for the Southern Illinois operators."

POLITICAL WRITER WOUNDS PUBLISHER IN A SWORD DUEL

They Meet in Paris to Settle Differences Over Article; Reconciled After Fight.

By the Associated Press.
PARIS, Nov. 30.—A duel with swords was fought today by Sergi Andre, newspaper proprietor, and Bernard Denisane, political writer on La Liberte. The men fought for 24 minutes, in 12 rounds, before Denisane's blade penetrated Andre's elbow.

The contestants, seconded by several prominent men, met at dawn in the Parc des Princes on the edge of the city.

Andre, who is chairman of the board of the Spidoleine Oil Co., challenged Denisane because of an article written by the latter which was considered insulting. Denisane had refused to explain his article or to withdraw it.

ALLUVIAL DIAMOND OUTPUT ALARMS BIG MINE OWNERS

Individual Diggers May Make Stones as Cheap as Artificial Pearls.

By the Associated Press.
LONDON, Nov. 30.—Diamonds soon will be as common as artificial pearls, if the present unrestricted output from alluvial diggings continues, in the opinion of South African diamond magnates, says a dispatch to the Daily Express from Capetown. Diamond mine owners are perturbed over the increasing output of stones from the alluvial diggings, where individuals are finding plenty of stones and are putting them on the market at prices below those charged by the De Beers syndicate. Solomon B. Joel, Sir Ernest Oppenheimer and Sir Abe Bailey, mine owners, have arrived in Capetown from England with the hope of inducing the South African Government to limit the alluvial output.

PSYCHIATRIST SAYS WOMEN OUGHT NOT DRIVE AUTOS

Not Responsible; German Court, However, Gives One a Year for Manslaughter.

By the Associated Press.
AIX LA CHAPELLE, Germany, Nov. 30.—A woman, a witness in Criminal Court, Dr. Alexander Crappell, psychiatrist, said Frau Elfrida Roehn, 38 years old, a successful business woman, could not be held responsible for running down and killing two persons with her automobile "because she is a woman."

"Women ought not to be allowed to drive automobiles," Dr. Crappell said. "Their nervous systems are so keyed that they cannot react quickly and rationally in times of danger. They are mentally and physically, but in this case any woman would be irresponsible."

Frau Roehn was convicted, however, and sentenced to one year in jail for manslaughter.

NO NECKTIE, NO ADMISSION

U. S. Supreme Court Bars Oklahoma Until He Borrows One.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Sil White, the "cowboy lawyer" of Okemah, Ok., met his Waterloo today before the Supreme Court. Wearing a 10-gallon hat, shirt open at the neck and minus necktie, he appeared as an applicant for permission to practice before the court. His friend, Attorney-General Short of Oklahoma, who was present, arranged for a necktie, but the absence of a tie was something else again. No one had ever appeared before the highest court without a tie, was the reply to the cowboy's protest, but his objections were overcome when he came down to the ultimatum, "No tie, no admission." A tie was borrowed; the cowboy lawyer was admitted; he left the courtroom and tore off the tie at the doorway.

CARL AKELEY, THE EXPLORER, DIES IN AFRICA

Nairobi Dispatch Says He Succumbed Nov. 17 While in Belgian Congo Collecting Material.

KNOWN AS SCULPTOR AND AS INVENTOR

American Naturalist Recently Completed Study of Gorillas—He Was 62 Years Old.

By the Associated Press.
NAIROBI, British East Africa, Nov. 30.—Carl Akeley, American explorer, sculptor and inventor, died Nov. 17 in the Belgian Congo, where he had been collecting specimens for the American Museum of Natural History.

He and wife sailed last January to study Gorillas.

Mr. Akeley began his career as a naturalist and explorer in 1895, when he was attached to the staff of the Field Museum in Chicago. A native of New York, he had been trained as a young man in taxidermy and it was as a taxidermist that he first attained prominence in museum work. In 1899 he transferred to the American Museum of Natural History and had worked for it ever since, visiting Africa, South America and other places in a search for animal species to make "natural life" groups in the museum.

He and Mrs. Akeley sailed for Africa last Jan. 30, to study the gorilla. Akeley was working on a group of gorillas and a reproduction of their habitat which is to stand in the central exhibit in the African hall of the museum. During his active career, he found time to experiment with various inventions and is credited in "Who's Who in America" as the inventor of a cement gun and "the Akeley camera."

Divorced by First Wife.

The naturalist was twice married. His first wife, Mrs. Julia Denning Akeley, divorced him in 1923 on a cross-bill charging cruelty. They had made four trips to Africa together and she was applauded as the hunter who brought out the largest elephant ever shot on the Dark Continent. In 1924 Mr. Akeley married Miss Mary Lee Jobe, a widely known explorer and mountaineer. She is a graduate of Bryn Mawr College and Columbia University and was the first person to climb Mount Sir Alexander, one of the highest peaks in the Canadian Rockies.

Mr. Akeley was the author of one book on African travel and of numerous magazine articles. He became the center of unusual interest among naturalists several years ago when he wrote an article likening the gorilla to human beings. His theory was that the gorilla had within easily traceable periods of time evolved from a lower type to a higher type and has now almost abandoned his arboreal existence, living most of the time upon the ground, like a savage.

Reported Ill in September.

It was reported in September that he was ill and would return to the United States with George Eastman, the camera manufacturer of Rochester, N. Y., who visited him in Africa. He was expected to join Mr. Akeley there. Later the Museum of Natural History in New York denied cable reports that Mr. Akeley was suffering from a nervous breakdown at Nairobi. The museum received a message from the explorer at that time stating that he was leaving for the Congo to obtain additional material for the museum's gorilla group and to execute a special commission for the Belgian Government in relation to the establishment of a research station in the gorilla country. Two years ago a fire caused in New York artistic and church circles by a bronze sculpture by Mr. Akeley called "The Christs," the symbolical of evolution. The bronze was refused a place in an exhibition of the National Academy of Design. Plans were then made to exhibit it in a Fifth Avenue store window. Unveiling finally took place in the West Side Unitarian Church by the pastor, the Rev. Charles Francis Potter, causing wide comment from other pulpits.

Mr. Akeley was born in Orleans County, New York, May 19, 1864.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The American Museum of Natural History today received a cable from Mrs. Carl Akeley announcing the death of her husband, the explorer, on Nov. 17, at Mount Mikino, in the Kivu District of the Belgian Congo. No details of his illness were given except that death was caused by a hemorrhage.

GIVES A RAMBLING RECITAL ON STAND, OFTEN INCOHERENT

Ex-Attorney-General, Himself Facing Trial, Called to Testify Against Former Colleague.

SAYS HIS OPINION WAS NEVER SOUGHT

Declares He Doesn't Know Anything About Harding's Executive Order Transferring Lands.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON, A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Harry M. Daugherty, Attorney-General of the United States in the gladsome years when pals were pals and Warren Harding was President, was called to the witness stand today in the Fall-Doheny conspiracy trial and in testimony, which was almost incoherent at times, denied that he ever officially approved the leasing of the naval oil reserves. Former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall and Edward L. Doheny, oil magnate, are on trial, accused of criminal conspiracy in the leasing of the Elk Hills (Cal.) reserve by Fall to Doheny.

No more curious witness ever took the stand; stranger testimony was never heard. The former political boss of the United States rambled and rambled when asked point blank questions. Often he broke off in the middle of sentences, apparently unable to find the next word. He bent a vacant stare on the floor and appeared oblivious of his environment.

Has to Be Housed by Counsel.

When his abstraction was broken into by counsel he would start up with an elaborate, "I beg your pardon," and then resume his testimony in a round tone. He rolled out the phrases, "The President of the United States" and "the Attorney-General of the United States" time after time, winning for their solemnity to sink into the ears of the courtroom.

Half the time his answers were not responsive to questions, yet when recalled to the subject he seemed grandly to forgive those who interrupted him.

In the opening minutes of his appearance, when asked if he knew former Secretary of the Navy Edwin L. Denby, who was in the Cabinet with him, he replied slowly, "No, I don't think I ever saw him."

There was a moment of tense, blank astonishment, then the question was repeated carefully, and Daugherty, laughing, explained that he thought counsel was asking about Doheny.

"Of course, I knew Mr. Denby, very well," he said, enjoying the joke.

Forgets Date He Took Office.

At one time, after he had been unable to remember either the date of his inauguration as Attorney-General or the date of his resignation he said impatiently, "All those things were a long time ago; a lot of water has gone over the dam since then."

He came in with Harding in 1921, and resigned in the spring of 1924.

NAVY FLYER REFUSES TO JUMP WHEN PASSENGER CAN'T ESCAPE

Pilot Sticks to Post and Crashes With Plane; He Lives, Companion Dies.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The official navy account of the airplane crash in which Lieut. E. B. Curtiss was killed and Lieut. D. S. Cornwell, the pilot, seriously injured, discloses the fact that Cornwell stayed with his falling ship and refused to jump because his passenger, Curtiss, was unable to extricate himself and use his parachute. Both men fell 2000 feet with the plane. Cornwell is recovering at the Hampton Roads (Va.) naval hospital.

The injured aviator showed splendid courage," says an account in the Navy Training Station News. "By his daring attempt to free his passenger when his plane with a buckled-up wing was falling from a height of 2000 feet, Curtiss was unable to get clear to jump and Cornwell tried in vain to extricate him. Seeing his efforts were futile, Cornwell stuck to his post instead of jumping himself, and made an attempt to lessen the force of the crash by guiding the plane to some extent, even with a broken wing."

POSSE PURSUES SLAYER OF WIFE AT ELVINS, MO.

More Than 50 Armed Men, Some in Automobiles Searching Hill Country for Henry Graf.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.
FLAT RIVER, Mo., Nov. 30.—A posse of more than 50 armed men, some in automobiles, is searching the hill country in this vicinity for Henry Graf, 32 years old, a laborer, who shot and killed his wife, Gusie, 34, mother of five children, in their home at Elvins, near Flat River, at 9 a. m. today.

Graf and his wife removed to Elvins from St. Louis two months ago. In St. Louis they lived at 628 Lynch street. Mrs. Graf had been married before and had four children by her first husband, and one by Graf.

They quarreled frequently over Graf's failure to seek employment, and a few days ago he left home. He returned unexpectedly today and fired a pistol shot into the kitchen of the home at W. A. Wampler, who lived there with his wife, child and Mrs. Graf. Wampler ran to another part of the house, and Mrs. Graf entered the kitchen to remonstrate with her husband. Without a word he shot her in the heart and fled.

The posse was organized at once and communities on all the roads leading out of Flat River were notified to seek the murderer.

Neighbors said Graf had refused to work because his wife had some money and that he had beaten her on several occasions to force her to let him have it. This she refused.

SEEKS MEXICAN OIL PERMIT

Manager of British Concern Files Petition Under New Law.

By the Associated Press.
MEXICO CITY, Nov. 30.—In evident reply to doubts expressed abroad that British interests and accepted the provisions of the new oil law, the Department of Industry, Commerce and Labor, made official announcement today that El Agula Oil Co., a big British concern, accepted the provisions a month ago.

El Agula's manager, Harry Handfield Hallat, the announcement says, filed a petition with the department on Oct. 21, soliciting that he be granted a concession confirming petroleum rights, the duration of which will be for 60 years, as provided by Article 155 of the regulations of the oil law, on lands hereafter specified, with the understanding that the lands involved are privately owned.

PROMISES CORONER HE WON'T DRIVE FOR YEAR

John Heman Jr., whose automobile killed two women, to Heman "Careful Chauffeur."

John C. Heman Jr., 28-year-old contractor, whose automobile killed two women in 20 months, will employ a "careful chauffeur" and refrain from driving for the next year.

He made this promise today to the coroner after the inquest returned an open verdict in the death of Mrs. Elizabeth Foster, 25 years old, a widow of 2116 Newstead avenue, who was hit by his machine Friday night in front of 2811 Park avenue. Lacking any eye-witnesses to the accident, the jury held it had no evidence to indicate whether Heman was responsible for Mrs. Foster's death.

Immediately after the inquest Heman and his attorney, John W. Milford, retired with Coroner Vitt to the latter's private office. After five minutes newspaper reporters were called in.

"Mr. Heman wants to convince the public that he is not going to drive his automobile," the coroner said. "He has promised to employ a careful chauffeur. We do not ask any man to surrender his automobile, but we have asked Heman to make a suitable provision that no such accident occur in the future."

In offering to employ a chauffeur to drive his machine for the period of a year, Heman wants it distinctly understood that it is in no way an admission of guilt. It does not imply that he is responsible in any way for last Friday's accident.

An attentive auditor at the inquest was Mrs. William J. Scallie, daughter of Mrs. Lillian Schaefer, who was killed by Heman's automobile March 8, 1925, and whose death was held to have been accidental. "I wanted to see what looked like," Mrs. Scallie said.

The department's files which besides presented in evidence.

On direct examination, he submitted first in behalf of the prosecution side of several oil companies for the Pearl Harbor oil company in Hawaii, the company for which ultimately was awarded Doheny's Pan-American Petroleum and Transport Co. He also presented correspondence between E. C. Finney, Assistant Secretary of the Interior, during the Western trip in December, 1919. This correspondence was presented by the Government in support of its contention that Fall was personally in touch with all departmental transactions involving reserve leases.

THREE MEN HELD FOR MURDER OF JOHN BARRETT JR.

VICTIM WAS SUITOR OF GANGSTER'S WIFE

Mrs. Robinson Refuses to Testify and Nature of Evidence Against Suspects Is Not Disclosed.

Three men were held today by a coroner's jury at Kirkwood as accessories to the murder of John Barrett Jr., youthful admirer of Mrs. Mabel Robinson, wife of "Chippy" Robinson, "boss killer" of the Egan gang.

The scene of the crime was fixed at the Blue Front Cafe, 6121 Natural Bridge road, some distance from where Barrett was found dying on the night of Nov. 21 with Mrs. Robinson hysterical beside him.

But in holding John P. Cuddy, proprietor of the roadhouse, and Eugene Tinsley and Harry Lechler, his employees and henchmen, as accessories, the jury only deepened the enigma surrounding the affair. These three talked at the inquest today, yet managed to tell nothing that would solve the murder. They were a shifty trio of witnesses, each evasive in his own fashion, and the seal of gangland upon John Barrett's murder remains unbroken.

Woman Refuses to Testify.

Mrs. Robinson, in the inquest, maintained her refusal to testify on the ground that she might incriminate herself. As has been told, Jack Barrett, disregarding the warnings of Police Captain Doheny that Chippy Robinson would reach out for her, had gone the way of many who seek gangster vengeance, and Mrs. Robinson, the only known witness to the murder, seemed reluctant to consider the affair disclosed.

The facts which enabled the jury to fix the Blue Front Cafe as the probable scene of the murder were circumstantial. St. Louis County officers had found blood upon the floor in front of the place. "The floor in the room had been broken. There were bullet holes in the walls within. In a frozen clot of blood two smashed bullets had been discovered and there were three empty .45 caliber automatic cartridge shells nearby.

Cuddy and his employees were asked to explain these things. The roadhouse proprietor, a tall and beefy man, wearing a shabby brown buttoned high top, seemed the lack of a necktie heath, sat uneasily in the witness chair. Shooting? Cuddy had not heard any shooting that night. Murder? He hadn't heard of any murder, that is, not until just the other night. There had been that night.

Story of Proprietor.

"I left my place at 1:30 or 2 o'clock in the morning," he said. "I went to go hunting."

Coroner Bopp looked incredulous.

"Yep," said Cuddy. "I drove out to Franklin County to a hunting place called Little View, near Union. I do that right often. The roads were so bad the newspapers didn't get out there so the first thing I knew about the murder was when the officers arrested me."

They asked him about the blood stains, the broken door, the bullet holes. He lifted his eyebrows, as if to tell the truth, said he, he never saw any of those things because he hadn't been back to the Blue Front since the night of the murder.

Testimony of Bartender.

Lechler, the bartender, believed to have been on duty at Cuddy's place that night, hadn't heard any shooting. He left the place about 2:30 in the morning (the shooting occurred about 3 a. m.) and he hadn't been back since. Why not? Well, business was bad. How did he know that? Well, to be strictly truthful, a hanger-on had told him that a county deputy had "made" the place and he hadn't returned, so he hadn't gone back.

The third witness, Tinsley, seemed exceptionally obtuse. Murder? What murder, he wanted to know. They told him he knew what murder they meant. Oh, this Barrett killing? Where was he that night? He refused to answer. It might incriminate him. He had been doing for a living. Well, he was a gambler. He didn't get gamble? He refused to answer.

Mrs. Hall Under Cross-Examination

$700,000 FRAUD CHARGED BY WIDOW

Mrs. Pearl T. Johnson, Whose Husband Founded Insurance Firm Sues for Control.

Mrs. Pearl T. Johnson, widow of Walter A. Johnson, founder of the Missouri Insurance Co., 2908 Olive street, filed suit in Federal Court today to recover 900 shares of stock in the company which he willed to her.

The stock had a par value of $90,000, and a market value of $1,000,000, she alleges, but she surrendered it for only $283,000 because, she says, of misrepresentations made to her by her brother, Claude H. Tinsley, vice president of the company; Thomas O. West, another vice president, and Joseph A. Walker, the president.

Johnson died Jan. 25, 1924, leaving the bulk of his estate to his widow. In the following February or March, her petition states, she entered into a voting trust agreement with James C. Jones and Lon O. Hocker, attorneys, whereby her 900 shares were to be pooled with 440 shares, the 1340 shares being ample to control the entire issue of 2000 shares.

Conspiracy Charge Made.

In the following November, she alleges, her brother, Tinsley, and Walker and West conspired to get control of her stock, and her brother told her she would ruin her holdings if she persisted in carrying out the voting trust agreement.

Accordingly, she avers, she repudiated the agreement with Jones and Hocker and gave Walker power of attorney to vote her stock and Tinsley power of attorney to attend her affairs.

In February, 1925, Tinsley filed an affidavit in Probate Court at Clayton alleging Mrs. Johnson was incompetent to manage her affairs, and asking that he be appointed her guardian. He then induced her to go to California and remain there, in order that she would not resist the guardianship proceedings. Mrs. Johnson now alleges.

Tinsley later visited her in California, Mrs. Johnson relates in the petition, and persuaded her to sell her stock, telling her it was devalued. She says she returned to her home in St. Louis, where she learned of the sale of her stock. She says she received $22,000 out of the $140,000 as part of her gift to him and his brother. The only other payment she received was $65,000, she asserts, when she came to St. Louis last Nov. 4, determined to investigate the transactions.

On Nov. 12 Mrs. Johnson employed attorneys to investigate, and learned, she alleges, that the fair market value of her stock was $1,000,000. She asks that the defendants be compelled to return her 900 shares, and offers to surrender the $283,000 she says she received. The defendants are out of town.

SEEK COLLEGE BOY FOR KILLING GIRL, MISSING 3 MONTHS

Youth, 18, Disappears From School After Farmer's Daughter Flees From Her Home at Midnight.

By the Associated Press.

FRAZIE DU CHIEU, Wis., Nov. 30.—While posess today searched the hills of picturesque Kickapoo Valley for traces of Clara Olson, a hunt continued for her youthful College boy sweetheart, Erdman Olson, for whom a warrant charging murder has been issued.

The disappearance of the girl, nearly three months ago, was followed by the subsequent disappearance of young Olson, 18-year-old student at Gale College at Galeville, Wis., and the issuance of the warrant for his arrest, despite the fact that the death of the girl has not been established.

Erdman Olson, son of Albert Olson, wealthy Crawford County tobacco grower, first met Clara Olson, 22, daughter of Chris Olson, also a tobacco grower, last May. The families are not related and never had met.

Erdman, home from college frequently, was seen with the Olson girl. "They must tell you together and often on long automobile rides. Girl Flees From Home.

On Sept. 7, investigators have established, Erdman wrote the girl a letter, which she received Sept. 8. She destroyed the letter, her parents said, and retired to her room. Shortly after midnight the girl's father heard an automobile drive into the yard and leave again. He learned Clara had left and from her window a lamp cast its light into the yard.

In her room he found a note, which read: "Dear Folks—I know you will all be surprised to find me gone, as I am leaving this evening. I will have to go tonight."

"Please do not worry about me as I will not be gone very long. If anyone asks about me, tell them I have gone to La Crosse."

"I am not going to La Crosse. I am going to college. I am taking good care of me and will be back soon. Don't take it too seriously, as it will mean nothing—only a little surprise. I will be back soon from my trip."

Erdman Olson returned to his studies at Gale College, a preparatory school, Sept. 25, and a few days later Chris Olson, the girl's father, told county officials he went there to play with him to bring his daughter back.

Soon the youth disappeared from college. Officers have found that he also wrote to his parents just before he disappeared.

Warrant Charges Murder.

Chris Olson yesterday signed a complaint after investigators had laid their information before District Attorney Earl and Justice Speck, and the latter issued a warrant charging first degree murder. A hint of suicide was contained in the letter. Erdman wrote to his parents and mother which he sent to Clara's father.

"You'll never see me again unless it's in my coffin," he wrote to his parents. "I'd take death rather than capture. Or did (his brother) may live down the shame I have left."

In the letter to the girl's father, which referred to the meeting of the two at Gale College, when the father demanded his daughter be returned in three days, the youth wrote: "I know Clara can't be back by the time you say. What a fool I would be to wait for the Sheriff! Your daughter will come back to you when I come back."

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—A general investigation into freight rates on cotton moving to practically all destinations was ordered today by the Interstate Commerce Commission. A conference to complete arrangements for it was called to be held in New Orleans.

MRS. HALL, PROUD AND CALM, NOT THE APPEALING WITNESS HER TWO BROTHERS WERE

By DOROTHY DIX. (Copyright, 1926.)

BOMERVILLE, N. J., Nov. 30.—At the opening of court in the Hall-Mills trial yesterday Mrs. Hall walked to the witness stand as many a woman in ages gone by must have walked to the torture chair. Head up, chin out, shoulders squared, eyes burning as with fever, face white and set mouth a thin line of grim determination.

And, indeed no victim broken on the wheel of the inquisition ever went through a worse ordeal than she endured during the two and a half hours in which Senator Simpson mercilessly beat upon her heart with every weapon at his command.

It was due to the death between these two, with no quarter asked or given on either side. Senator Simpson began by trying to break down the guard with which she has protected her emotions, and make her admit that she had been jealous of Mrs. Mills.

He called her own remorse. He reminded her of her love for her husband and of how she had said that he was everything in the world to her and that his death had wiped out everything in her life. Then he twitted her with her husband's unfaithfulness. He threw her husband's passion for another woman in her face and mocked down the guard with which she has protected her emotions, and make her admit that she had been jealous of Mrs. Mills.

Her Armor Never Pierced.

But nothing that he could do broke through Mrs. Hall's icy calm. Other women whom the little prosecutor has roared to fury, had screamed back at him, but Mrs. Hall's cultured, refined, well-bred voice never changed its even tone. It never took on an edge, it never showed any emotion, it never less a sort of cold contempt. And the expression of her face never changed. That, too, was as blank, inscrutable as a mask.

Yes she had loved her husband. Yes she had believed that he loved her. Yes she had trusted him utterly. No, she had never observed any change in his conduct toward her. He had been just as kind and affectionate to the last as he had always been.

Yes she had known Mrs. Mills. Yes she had known that her husband had been some slight going on between them, but nothing much.

At this, a gasp of wonder swept the court room, and every woman—women—turned to her sister woman with eyes that were ironic, incredulous, humorous and that questioned whether they heard aright or not.

Was it possible there could be a love so great that it was above all jealousy, above all suspicion? Could a woman so love a man that it blinded her to his faults, so that she did not even see his weaknesses? Could a wife have faith in her husband as unquestioning as her faith in God? Were these things possible, and was it just because we work, and she had believed that her husband being with her so much was merely due to their interest in church activities.

No she had never seen the prayers Mr. Hall had written for Mrs. Mills while she was sick in the hospital. No she had never seen any of the letters that her husband had written to Mrs. Mills. Nor had she seen the diary. Nor this scornfully—she had never looked over her husband's shoulder, while he was writing to Mrs. Mills. No, she had never read any of the love letters that passed between her husband and Mrs. Mills nor the diary, until just a few days before this present trial commenced. No she had not read the newspapers at the time of the murder.

Then again and again Senator Simpson would demand of her: "Mrs. Hall how is it possible that a woman such as you are, a woman of the world, a woman of intelligence, could be in almost daily association with your husband and a woman he loved, could see them together, could see them in church and the looks that passed between them, and not suspect anything?"

And again and again Mrs. Hall repeated over and over her lover's litany: "I loved him, I believed in him. I never had the slightest suspicion that anything was wrong."

The Astonishing Conclusion.

"And now that you have heard all of these things that you have heard in court; now that you have read these letters and this diary in which he proclaims his passion for another woman, and tells how he loves her and how he yearns for her, do you still believe in him?" sneered Senator Simpson.

KILLED BY BROTHER

loves and temporary marriages, and easy divorce that we find it hard to believe in such a miracle!

But, believe it or not, as you can, as you will, Mrs. Hall stuck to her simple story of her faith in her husband, and her ignorance of his love for another woman and his faithlessness to her. Nor was Simpson able to shake her.

Mrs. Hall's Struggle for Her Faith.

Mrs. Hall did not make as appealing a witness as her brothers. She lacked the bluff heartiness of Henry Stevens and the childish naïveté of Willie, but the men had no interest in their testimony beyond trying to prove themselves squintless.

But Mrs. Hall had suffered. Her heart had been torn, not only by the loss of her husband, whose going took the light of life out of her, but she had had the greater loss of having her ideal shattered and the agony of finding out that she had been betrayed. So it is no wonder that she had to steel herself to hardness to go through the task, and that some of the bitterness she could not help but feel seeped through some of her replies. For myself, I felt that I had never seen a more pitiful sight than this proud woman, clinging with desperate hands to the last shred of her belief in a man who had been proved unworthy, because if she lost that faith, she would have nothing left at all.

KILLS BROTHER WHEN PLAYING WITH SHOTGUN

Edwin Stocker, 12, Shoots Richard, 5, With Weapon He Thought Was Not Loaded.

Shot in the head by his 12-year-old half-brother, playing with a shotgun, Richard Stocker, 5 years old, of 2744 North Garrison avenue, died yesterday afternoon at Mullany Hospital. The brother, Edwin, had found the weapon in a dresser drawer and was "playing rabbit," he said, when it was discharged.

The boys were alone in the house at the time of the shooting, both parents being at work. Usually Richard was left with friends, but yesterday because Edwin had a cold and could not go to school, they were left at home.

The accident occurred at about noon. Edwin said he had pulled out the shotgun several times thinking it was unloaded, and had laid the weapon aside when his brother said: "Shoot it again, Eddie." When he pulled the trigger once more, he related, the charge entered Richard's forehead.

Another brother, Elmer, 11, coming in from school at 12:15, found Edwin trying to staunch the flow of blood from the smaller boy's wounds. He ran to neighbors, who called police, and Richard was removed to the hospital. Stocker had been hunting over the weekend and had three shotguns in the room where the children were playing.

After questioning, Edwin was permitted to go home with his parents and at an inquest today repeated his story. A verdict of accident was returned.

EPISCOPAL BISHOPS' ANNULMENT ACT CITED

New York Paper Recalls Church's Dissolution of Jenks' Marriage in 1891.

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—In connection with discussion of the annulment by a Roman Catholic tribunal of the Episcopal marriage of Marjorie and Vanderbilt, the New York Times today recalls that in 1891 four Episcopal bishops annulled a marriage under similar circumstances.

Bishop William T. Manning of the Episcopal diocese of New York criticized the Catholic annulment as an invasion of American civil rights and an affront to his church.

The annulment of 1891 dissolved the marriage, so far as the church was concerned, of Almet P. Jenks, a Brooklyn judge, to Maud E. Littlejohn, daughter of Bishop A. N. Littlejohn, who officiated at the wedding of the Duke of Marlborough and Consuelo Vanderbilt in 1905.

Both Married Again.
Between the time of the divorce and the annulment, Jenks married again. He died in 1924. The engagement of Miss Littlejohn to the Rev. Mr. Charles A. Jessup, rector of the Episcopal Church at Holts, N. Y., was announced in 1892, but the wedding did not take place.

In 1896, when she was 34 years old, she married the Rev. William Parke Bird, then 23 years old, who had been secretary to her father. The ceremony was performed in a New York Episcopal Church with the father and mother of the bride as the only witnesses.

Negroes Take $10 in Holdup.
Two armed Negroes held up Thomas Palku, saloonkeeper, 1801 South Second street, as he and his wife, Mary, and a friend were on their way to their home, 3626 California avenue, from the saloon at 11 p. m. yesterday. They took $10 and a watch from Palku and escaped in an alley on Lafayette avenue between Second and Third streets.

BRITISH STRIKE IS OPPORTUNITY FOR HIGH COAL PRICES

scale, then paid 5 per cent above union scale. They kept their men, but surrendered their advantage over Illinois operators. Once more Illinois' lower freight rates were controlling.

"So one fine morning, Illinois awoke to find their Chicago market restored to them. They found themselves relieved of Kentucky's competition in the North. The demand was strong and the supply was more or less within their control. The coal operators did exactly what other business does under similar circumstances. One large operator raised the price. Immediately all other operators followed the lead.

Prices Up $1.25 a Ton.
The first jump on high-grade domestic lump at the mine mouth was from $2.75. Its all-summer price, to $2.25. The market did not even waver. On Nov. 1, 25 cents more was added, making the price $2.50. Still the market held and, further encouraged by an unseasonable cold snap, 50 cents more was added on Nov. 3, making the price $3.00. Other grades and sizes made corresponding increases."

The reporter asked Kavanagh whether production costs had varied. "Of course not," he replied, "but all summer our recoveries were less than our costs. We have lost money all year until October and November. If the market holds up during December we may break even on the year, but I doubt it."

Burden on Householders.
Unfortunately the burden of bringing the operators' books to balance falls chiefly upon the residence consumer. Large users of coal, industries and office buildings, are protected against price increases by contracts. Residence consumers about 20 per cent of the 2,000,000 tons of Illinois coal which the city uses annually. Fewer than 20 per cent of the residences had laid in their winter's supply when the price increase struck.

The retailer, as in other businesses, has passed on each successive increase in the cost of the coal at the mine to the consumer. Best domestic lump is selling on the open market in St. Louis today at $3.25 per ton. Early in September the price was $2.

The spread between $4 at the mine and $3.25 at the residence is consumed by freight, unloading, storing, reloading, delivery and profit to the retailer.

Railroads Add to Costs.
The situation has some interesting sidelights. When the market became so favorable for Illinois production several railroads were storing coal in coal cars. They were holding hundreds of cars loaded with coal purchased for their own uses. The advantage of storing in cars was two-fold. It saved the expense of unloading and reloading. It enabled the roads to shift the coal quickly over their lines to any point it was needed.

When Illinois mines began to increase production, as they did with the price ascending, they demanded cars. The roads unloaded many of their storage cars. However, it is probable that not all these cars have been released, for some of the mines last week experienced a car shortage. The operators are not greatly perturbed. A car shortage that is not too acute is excellent for sustaining the market. Coal hard to move is coal that will carry a good price.

The British strike is a remote thing of which the coal operators know only vaguely yet it is not without its psychological as well as more material effect upon coal prices here. One large Illinois operator sent 50,000 tons of coal to New Orleans. Instantly, the confidence of the operators in the higher price was strengthened. On the other hand, press dispatches recently carried the information that the strike was petering out and soon would be called off. Instantly thousands of tons of seaboard dropped more than $1 in price. British agents gobbled it up and thereby saved a nice sum.

As has been told, Eastern operators are feverishly bringing coal to the surface until last week, a new, all-time record for bituminous coal production in the United States was reached. If exporting should cease, Eastern mines would again dump their surplus upon Chicago. Chicago again would turn away from the smokestacks. Kentucky would produce non-union scale and Illinois would produce again upon the market that now is theirs.

URGE STATE LAW TO FIGHT SALE OF DRUGS TO ADDICTS

Speakers at Missouri Welfare League Also Recommend New Prison Hospital for Users of Narcotics.

A state antinarcotics law providing for prosecution of dope peddlers under a felony statute and a new State prison hospital, to which drug addicts might be committed, was the recommendation of speakers who addressed the Missouri Welfare League last night at the Second Baptist Church.

They included former Special Assistant United States Attorney General John C. Dyott, H. S. Forrer of Kansas City, chief of narcotics agents in Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Arkansas, and Dr.
H. Unterberg, St. Louis neurologist.

The proposal for a State law along these lines was submitted to the Legislature last season.
It passed the House but was defeeted in the Senate.

"One of the chief defects of the Harrison antinarcotics law, a Federal statute under which all illicit drug prosecutions are brought at present," said Dyott, who spoke first, "is that it has no adequate provision for the segregation and cure of the drug addict. The act provides only that addicts may be sent to jail or to the penitentiary.
If they are sent to jail they find no facilities for treatment."

Urges State Treatment.
"The Federal penitentiary at Leavenworth has such facilities and in many cases addicts are sent there in hope they may be cured of the drug habit. But this makes an ex-convict out of the addict and he leaves the penitentiary under almost as great a social handicap as slavery to the dope habit. We should not treat the drug addict as a criminal, but as a patient."

"The State should have a law to put him away from society for a time and under compulsory medical treatment." The element of compulsion is essential in treatment of drug users. Their will and sense of honor have been impaired if not destroyed. They cannot be expected to co-operate in a cure. The drug addict is a liar and a sneak; his hunger for drugs becomes more than a habit; it is a demand. The State must force him to take treatment."

Dyott praised the Harrison law, saying "it has done wonders," but he insisted it should be helped by supplementary "State legislation.
State enforcement," he declared, would relieve a congested Federal docket and could make a more direct attack on the drug peddler than the Federal statute does. Under the Harrison law the possession and sale of narcotics which have not been issued to the possessor on regular physicians' prescription or the revenue tax paid constitute a crime. This indirect regulation of the drug traffic, the speaker said, could be made more forceful if the sale of narcotics by other than a reputable physician or druggist were made a felony.

Would Revoke Doctor's Licenses.
The next speaker, Forrer, quoted a St. Louis police official whose name he would not disclose, as saying that 50 per cent of the crime in St. Louis is directly traceable to drug addiction. Forrer favors a State law and believes another proviso should be a clause revoking the license of physicians found to be drug addicts.

"Physicians and druggists on the whole obey the Harrison law," Forrer said, "and we estimate that only about 3 per cent of the illicit drug supply comes through them. The rest is smuggled stuff from the sea-boards." He scoffed at the idea that people become addicts because physicians "put them on the dope."
"They learn it from other addicts or from curiosity," the speaker asserted.

"We are finding that most of the addicts we arrest now are older than 25 and admit being users of drugs for more than five years. This would indicate that the Harrison law has been effective in preventing recruits in drug addiction. Nor is it true, as wild reports have given the impression, that the drug evil has spread to school children.
In all my experience I never heard of a school child who was an addict."

Too Costly for Children.
"It takes about $7 to $10 a day to keep an addict in dope at the current price of $1 a grain for morphine and cocaine. Where would school children get that much money? It is absurd."

"There is talk too that prohibition has increased addiction to drugs. That is wet propaganda.
Any dope fiend will tell you that drugs and booze don't mix. The whisky drinker seldom takes to dope, if ever, and the dope addict never uses liquor. The two evils are not at all related."
"Dope addiction comes from contact with dope addicts. It is an environmental thing. Therefore, whether we can cure the addict or not, we must have a law which will enable us to segregate him from society. He is a social menace.
While I have seldom seen cures of addicts that lasted I have been in the game long enough to realize how important it is to take them away from society and attempt to cure them. The close relationship of prostitution and perversions, petty and major crimes to drug addition is recognized by all social workers. The dope addict, man or woman, will do anything to get the drugs he or she must have."

A State law, Forrer concluded, would greatly assist the Government in controlling dope addicts.

Favors Coercion Method.
Dr. Unterberg, who closed the discussion, described the drug fiend as "a constitutional psychopath of great emotional instability who is led into the habit through suggestion, by seeing the effect of drugs on others, or through curiosity."
He described the three stages of addiction; the first in which the victim is enamored of the drug, the second a period of contrition when he vainly tries to fight off the habit; and the last as the chronic stage when he no longer possesses the will power or the desire to free himself.

This expert's particular interest was in a state hospital for drug addicts. He said that it was possible to cure drug users in "a closed hospital where coercion can be used."

The ordinary state hospital, Dr.
Unterberg pointed out, is not equipped to treat drug addicts and they are not wanted as patients.

Not Good Luck— Good Bonds

Luck or chance plays no part in the prepa-

Gold Bonds. One reason your money earns 6½% interest without risk is that there must be a demand for the building proposed before Fidelity Bonds are issued on it. If there is already an over-supply of buildings of like and no one is prosperous.

CUSTODY OF SQUIER CHILD IS AWARDED TO THE MOTHER

New York Court Orders 12-Year-Old Girl Surrendered to Mrs. H. R. Paige.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The custody of 12-year-old Patricia Squier was awarded to her mother, Mrs. Horace Raymond Paige, by Justice Wasservogel yesterday. Neither the girl nor her wealthy father, Charles Burnham Squier, was at the hearing on the writ of habeas corpus filed by Mrs. Paige directing Mrs. Charles B. Squier Sr. to produce her granddaughter in court. Mrs. Paige contended Squier had not kept an agreement that each should have custody of the child for alternate six-month periods.

Counsel for Mrs. Paige alleged that Mrs. Paige and her present husband planned to take the girl to Paris to obtain for themselves the income of two large estates which the girl will inherit when her father and grandmother die.

Squier recently filed a suit against Paige for $1,000,000, alleging alienation of his wife's affections.

Mrs. Paige was Miss Olive Rae Day Rae of 5333 Bartmer avenue, before her marriage to Squier, a social event on June 14, 1913.

CONSOLIDATION OF STATE'S BUREAUS RECOMMENDED

Association for Economy Would Reduce Missouri's Present 123 Boards to 12 Departments.

BUDGET SYSTEM ALSO SUGGESTED

Every Other State in the Union Has It—Measures to Be Presented to Next Legislature.

A plan for consolidation of the 123 boards and agencies of the Missouri State government into 10 or 12 departments, and for establishment of an executive State budget system, was made public today by the Missouri Association for Economy in Public Expenditures. The Legislature, which convenes in January, will be asked to enact the plan into law.

The Association for Economy was formed by the co-operation of industrial, commercial, mercantile, labor and educational bodies. It is headed by Elmer Donnell, who is also managing director of the Associated Industries of Missouri. The report was prepared under the direction of Thomas H. Rogers, director of research for the association.

"Most functions performed by the boards and commissions are essential obligations of government," the report says, "but the laws creating them were experiments with new problems, and time and experience have developed their weak spots."

Overlapping Bureaus.

"New bodies have been created without regard to regulations already in effect, resulting in duplication and overlapping. During the past quarter century, in which more than half of the boards and bureaus were created, governmental disbursements have increased from $4,116,348 in 1900 to $54,665,983 in 1925.

"If all boards, commissions and official agencies under the Governor's direction were placed under it in fact, with power of removal, the Governor would not have as much political power as he has with the large membership of boards as now constituted, and they would be more responsive to a demand for efficient and economical government."

INSPECTORS CHOSEN WITH NO REGARD FOR QUALIFICATIONS FOR WORK, REPORT DECLARES

THE Missouri Association for Economy in Public Expenditures, in its report on the workings of the State Government, says:

"One of the most abused services in the State Government is inspection. In only rare instances are inspectors placed on the payroll because of their equipment for that particular work. They are appointed for political considerations, and most of them could have been assigned to any other department. This is obvious from the 'previous occupations' given for inspectors."

"Of 24 Deputy Game Commissioners, seven were farmers, two merchants, and the others were a shoemaker, hotel proprietor, veterinarian, inspector of construction, drifter, cigar manufacturer, restaurant owner, grain inspector, automobile dealer, sheet metal worker, cooper, Circuit Clerk, Sheriff, grain buyer and a dairyman."

"Of 25 inspectors in the food and drug department, five were inspectors, three merchants, three clerks, two druggists, and the others were a real estate dealer, salesman, produce dealer, grocer, dentist, newspaper man, teacher, policeman, veterinarian, secretary, insurance man or county collector."

"Of the Deputy Factory Inspectors, three were machinists, the others a decorator, social service worker, drifter, Deputy Assessor, dealer in farm machinery and salesman."

"Of 12 Deputy Oil Inspectors, two were inspectors, two clerks, the others a merchant, taxi driver, auto dealer, Circuit Clerk, publisher, lawyer, accountant and salesman."

"No better illustration of duplication of authority, unnecessary costs, and absence of uniform treatment can be cited, than that of tax collection. Missouri collects large sums for automobile licenses, taxes on gasoline and oils, incomes, inheritances, corporation franchises, and for corporation registration. The Secretary of State has supervision over automobile license and corporation registration fees collections; the State Treasurer has charge of enforcement of the inheritance tax, the oil inspection department has control over all enforcement of the gasoline tax, and the State Auditor has charge of collection of the corporation franchise and the income taxes."

Force Cents Tax Control.

"The State Tax Commission, subject to the constitutional rights of the State Board of Equalization, has general supervision over the assessing officers of the State. The Tax Commission performs the work that would be performed by the Board of Equalization if members of the latter, an ex-officio body created by the constitution, were free to perform all duties that should be performed by it."

"With the multitude of other duties performed by the Governor, State Auditor, State Treasurer, Secretary of State and Attorney-General, who constitute the Board of Equalization, some responsible body such as the Tax Commission, is necessary. But while that body is performing part of the work, it would be economical and more efficient at the same time to compel its members to perform such relative duties as are now performed by other officials. Such a grouping would enable the same men to perform work under one force that is now divided among several."

The report sets forth that Missouri is the only one of the 48 states of the Union that has not adopted the budget. "Business has used the budget for years, and could not operate efficiently without it. While government will not profit as much from its use as business, the purpose is to inject a sufficient amount of business in government to minimize waste and increase efficiency."

Antiquated Fiscal System.

"The present State fiscal system in Missouri was created before railroads crossed the State. There were no large business concerns. Population was sparse, and there were few institutions supported by State funds. Today the obligations of statehood are complex, and the complexities have multiplied beyond what is necessary because there has been no efficient survey of administration and methods."

Investigation by the Missouri Association for Economy discloses that 13 states, within the last 10 years, have reorganized their administrative agencies. These are Illinois, Massachusetts, Idaho, Nebraska, Ohio, Washington, Maryland, Pennsylvania, Tennessee, Vermont, Minnesota, South Dakota and New York. No State adopting a civil administrative code has repealed it."

The report declares that "these 13 states, without exception, have done what should be done in Missouri—they have analyzed the functions performed by different agencies, and have grouped them in departments with sole consideration to the related work that each performs."

The report contains a review of the efforts made in Missouri to consolidate phases of the work at various times, but asserts that such efforts have met defeat because the proposals have been partisan.

Filling Station Owner Held Up.

Two men, with a revolver, held up Otto Koch, owner of an oil filling station at 2529 North Vandeventer avenue, in the station at 11 p. m. yesterday, taking $14.75 from the register and two checks from his pockets. They escaped in an automobile.

Dr. Unterberg seemed to think that the popular conception of the horrors the addict goes through in fighting off the drug was exaggerated.

Describes Simple Cure.

"The physical cure is relatively simple," he remarked. "Addicts should be taken off the drug suddenly or very quickly. They suffer agonizing pains in the abdomen, their pulse is rapid, they may suffer from tremors, delirium or collapse. Their condition appears to be fearfully alarming. But in four to 10 days the actual craving for drugs leaves them and the only medical problem remaining is to treat insomnia. Gradual reduction of drugs in my experience has never worked. The short, sharp period of suffering and then rest is better."

"But there is a psychic side to drug addiction and that is far harder to cure. I have seen few positive cures. The physician usually tries to awaken the addict's pride in having made the battle, or a sense of gratitude for the help he has received and in that way bolsters the addict's will. Generally, though, the cure is only an interim and the addict goes back."

Officials of the Missouri Welfare League indicated that some such measure as proposed by speakers last night would be sponsored by the league in its legislative program.

FIND AUTO USED BY ROBBERS WHO SHOT 3 PERSONS

Machine, Stolen Month Ago, Abandoned After Escape With $10,982 From Grand and Washington.

VICTIMS CANNOT DESCRIBE GUNMEN

Gang Believed to Be Same That Wounded Bank Messenger July 20—Nineteen Suspects Held.

Careful preparation on the part of the robbers who shot three persons and took $10,982 at the busy southwest corner of Grand and Washington boulevards shortly before noon yesterday is shown by developments in the police inquiry. Because of the robbers' deliberate approach in a slowly-moving stolen automobile, and their instant and murderous attack, firing on their victims without warning, police officials think it likely that the holdup men were the same who on July 20 in an automobile Negro bank messenger at Twelfth boulevard and Washington avenue and escaped with $16,000.

Of 19 suspects held by police, 15 are men with city police records, picked up by detectives in a general roundup. One man and three women were taken from a house in Pine Lawn, because of the suspicions of a local deputy constable, who is a neighbor, and who watched the house after he read of the robbery. A number of men arrived at the house in an automobile after dark, and when the deputy constable began making inquiries, the machine was driven away, taking all the men but one, whom he arrested. With the women in the house. A 45-caliber automatic pistol, such as was used in the robbery, was found in the house.

Victims Can't Identify Robbers. Several of the 19 suspects were taken to City Hospital to be viewed by Anthony F. Stuever, treasurer of the W. Louis Theater, and his guard, Patrolman Nelson Shinnell, who were shot down by the robbers at the street corner. Both said they would not be able to recognize the robbers.

"The two men whom I saw on the running board of the car had masks on," Shinnell said. "They were shooting at us before they stepped from the running board. One of them told me to put my hands up, but I was shot almost at the same instant, as I was drawing out my revolver. I had placed my hand on the revolver just before, when I had looked over my shoulder and seen their closed car approaching us."

Stuever said he was unable to remember even how the men were dressed, except that their clothing was dark, or whether they had overcoats. "It was all over in less than a minute," he said. "One of the bullets hit me, and I dropped the brief case containing the money, and one of the men caught the bag before it even got to the pavement."

Mrs. Edna Ziegenbalk, 3380 Maffitt avenue, who suffered a flesh wound in the lower left leg, and who saw two men step out of the car today viewed some suspects, but recognized no one. Three Wounded Will Recover. Both Shinnell and Stuever are expected to recover, their wounds, each in the left side, not having affected vital organs. In addition, Shinnell's upper right arm bone was broken. Mrs. Ziegenbalk, who is 26 years old, suffered a comparatively slight wound, and the fact that she was shot did not become known to police until three hours later, as she hurried to a physician's office without reporting her injury.

Detailing the plans apparently made for yesterday's robbery, police officials point out that the Lincoln car used was stolen a month before. It belonged to Francis D. Seward, candy manufacturer, and police had since been looking for it, anticipating its use for some criminal purpose.

When the car was recovered yesterday afternoon in an alley north of Delmar boulevard and west of Academy avenue, it bore license plates issued for a Ford car. These plates, it developed on inquiry, were issued to a fictitious address, 1620 North Third street—Third street stops at No. 1228—and to a name also presumably fictitious.

Brief Case Found in Car. In the abandoned car the robbers left the black brief case which Stuever used as the receptacle for the theater money, and a strip of cheesecloth with two eye-holes, evidently a mask. It had blood-stains. More than one bullet had penetrated the rear window of the car, and these circumstances cause the belief that police pursuers, who followed the car to Easton and Leonard avenues, wounded at least one occupant of the car. How seriously, there is little to indicate.

Most of the shots in the pursuit were fired by Motorcycle Policeman Thomas Chopliski, who, after his cycle overturned, rose in the car of the Chief of Police, driven by the Chief's chauffeur, William Engle. Two gray caps were found near the scene of the robbery, one bearing the imprint of Meyer Bros. store, Springfield, Ill., and the other without lettering. A handkerchief, with the initials C. J. L., was found there, and the police thought it was used as a mask by one of the robbers. Some witnesses said that the apparent leader, a tall man seeming 30 to 35 years old, dropped a handkerchief, which he had been holding to his chin, as he got back into the car. The remaining clue is furnished by the bullets, of .45-caliber size and automatic pistol type, one taken from Stuever's wound and the other from the Alois optical store, at 529 North Grand, where it pierced a window and broke a tall man seeming 30 to 35 years

SENATE TO HEAR STORY OF OLDS' PART IN RED YARN

Post-Dispatch, Telling of Inspiration of "Bolshevist Hegemony" Tale in Demand in Washington.

TEXT REPRINTED BY BALTIMORE SUN

Assistant Secretary of State Keeps Correspondents Waiting Two Hours,
Then Says Nothing.

By PAUL Y. ANDERSON,
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Official circles in Washington were violently agitated over the publication in Sunday's Post-Dispatch of the fact that Assistant Secretary of State Robert E. Olds had secretly inspired a story that pictured the Mexican Government in the act of disseminating bolshevist propaganda throughout Central America, and that he had taken steps to insure general publication of the story throughout the United States.

As was told Sunday, Olds called in representatives of the national press associations, and suggested that they send out the story to the newspapers of the country, but refused to accept responsibility for the statements, either in his own person or in the name of the State Department.

The Baltimore Sun today reprinted the text of the Post-Dispatch account, prefacing it as follows: "Senate investigation threatens as the result of an exposure by the St. Louis Post-Dispatch of steps taken in the State Department 10 days ago to lay before the American public a picture of Mexico fostering bolshevism throughout Central America, thus menacing American control of the Panama Canal."

Similar references appeared in other Eastern newspapers.

Olds Has Nothing to Say.

Newspaper correspondents who called at the State Department yesterday, armed with copies of the Post-Dispatch Sunday story, were told that Assistant Secretary Olds was reading it, and would be unable to see them until he had finished his scrutiny. After a wait of about two hours, he sent word that he would not see any newspaper man, and that he had nothing to say on the subject.

However, it was stated in other quarters in the State Department that there was no disposition to deny the main facts in the story, although it was contended that Olds' statements to the press association correspondents were made as the result of repeated inquiries, and not solely on his own initiative.

On the other hand, it was not denied that the correspondents went to Olds' office in response to an express summons.

Senators Ask for Copies.

From Senators came numerous requests for copies of the Sunday Post-Dispatch, some explaining that they desired to incorporate the story in speeches which they intend making in the Senate on the Mexican situation when Congress convenes.

If a showdown comes on the incident, it appears likely that Olds will be made the scapegoat. Nevertheless, nobody familiar with State Department procedure seriously believes that Olds acted without the knowledge and approval of his superior, Secretary of State Kellogg. Not only would such an action be unprecedented, but it would be violently in conflict with departmental practice. Under Kellogg, that practice has been marked by unusual severity.

TWO TONES, GAY HUES IN WOMEN'S NEW SHOE STYLES

BUYERS FROM MANY STATES PRESENT

Display Sponsored by St. Louis Wholesalers for Southwestern Retailers' Association Meeting.

St. Louis is a great shoe manufacturing center, with sales running into hundreds of millions of dollars a year—that's Big Business. Its shoemen provide an annual Pageant of Footwear Fashions to entertain visiting retailers and display styles—that's Commercial Drama. They make the show feature so interesting that 1000 or so men and women crowd into a hotel ballroom for each performance, yet manage to put sufficient emphasis on the shoes that the spectators make frequent notes—that's nothing short of a Gift.

The Southwestern Shoe Retailers' Association, comprising 3000 buyers and others from the 48 states and Canada, opened its annual convention here yesterday, continuing through tomorrow. Unlike most conventions, the only speeches are at luncheon sessions and the rest of the time is for purchasing and sightseeing—the former, hope the hosts—and for viewing the pageant, which is at Hotel Statler ballroom at 2:15 and 8:15 p. m. each day. The St. Louis Shoe Manufacturers' and Wholesalers' Association provides the entertainment.

Two-Tone Shoes New Feature.

Two-tone shoes, contrasting color or material, or both, appear to be the outstanding new feature for the feminine foot world for next spring and summer. Gay hues will characterize the product for the year. Styles for women receive the chief attention: 21 young women displayed shoes on the runway in the opening performances of the pageant yesterday, eight little girls showed what children will wear and there was a lone man model.

At one end of the ballroom a blue curtain was erected on a stage, from which the runway extended the full length of the center of the room, on a level with the eyes of the seated spectators. When the curtain parted it revealed two elaborate evening slippers, big enough for a gladiator, as scenery and a backdrop of silvery cloth, through which the performers and models emerged. First, there were addresses of welcome by Gov. Baker, in the afternoon, and H. G. Johansen, president of the local association.

Harry Fox, a vaudeville comedian, was master of ceremonies. Opening and closing numbers were dances by the "Petit Parisien Ballet," a group of comely young women. The first was a Tiller dance, with abbreviated costumes of black velvet, and the last was the Black Bottom, with equally short dresses of blue and white and saucy caps to match. Interspersed between the fashion promenades were songs and chatter by Fox and his partner and another young woman. There was a jazz orchestra and, during promenades, a woman soloist sang.

Modern Cinderella There.

Miss Eunice Gerling, "the modern Cinderella," chosen in a newspaper contest as the possessor of a perfect foot, had the honor of strolling down the runway alone, wearing a green frock and silver brocade slippers with big silver buckles and silver-studded heels, and trying not to show stage fright.

Each young woman model was preceded by a girl page, carrying a banner with the name of the maker of the model's shoes. For the first promenade pink was predominant in the costumes of the pages, who might have represented Sweet Peas or Joy. The second time they were pirates, wearing white waists, black hats, boleros and trunks, and scarlet handkerchiefs about their heads with sashes of the same hue. For their final appearance their garments were of pastel shades and they had yarn wigs to match. Skirts hampered their step not at all. Sport and street wear was the subject of the first promenade. Many of the shoes were of the sort known as novelties. Straps and ribbon ties appeared frequently. Heels were of medium height. Slippers, of course, was what they really were, for women don't seem to wear shoes nowadays. Showing that designers are up to the minute, one model wore green slippers with straps made in the form and color of cardinal birds.

Some of the Other Designs.

Some of the other designs noted were: Black patent leather with brown leather trim; baby calf skin of brown and white, matching the model's hat and handbag; beige reptile cloth; white kid with colored strips flaring above the instep; scarlet leather with a wing design above the instep and black trim. The male model wore pale tan oxfords.

Heels were higher in the promenade for afternoon wear, but resembled those which have been

1927 PAVING-SEWER PROGRAM $11,866,000

Increase Over $9,293,000 of 1926 Caused by Plans for River des Peres.

The sewer and paving program for 1927 will be the greatest in the city's history. The total estimated cost of the work to be done is $11,866,000 as compared with $9,293,000 in 1926 and $6,815,000 in 1925.

The increase in 1927 over 1926 will be due primarily to the putting under contract of large sections of the project for converting the River des Peres into a sewer and storm channel. The 1927 program includes 13 contracts on River des Peres and other sewer projects, and 11 contracts on street, alley and sidewalk paving, a total of 246 contracts as compared with 246 in 1926 and 262 in 1925.

Progress on River des Peres. Two large contracts on the River des Peres work are now in progress and that for section J should be completed during the late winter. It is expected work on sections B and C will be substantially advanced by the fall of 1927 to permit of letting successful contracts extending through next year. These contracts, designated sections D and E, will provide for large concrete sewers extending from Manchester avenue to the River des Peres bridge at Lincoln boulevard, and are estimated at $4,500,000.

Another large project is that for the Western Mill Creek relief sewer, estimated to cost $1,100,000. This will be the fourth and last of the relief sewers for the Mill Creek valley provided for in the bond issue. Still another large project will embrace the two sections of the Wherry avenue joint relief sewer, estimated to cost $260,000 and $211,000 respectively.

To Pave 23 Miles of Streets. Paving for next year will cover 23 miles of streets and nine and one-half miles of alleys, amounting to $4,125,000. Large projects scheduled are:

Pennsylvania, from Haven to Main; Ninth, from Franklin to Market; Vandeventer, from Chouteau Market; Vandeventer, from Kingshighway to Tower Grove via Olive; from Twelfth to Chouteau; Clark, from Seventh to Elm; West Pine, from Grand to Kingshighway; Kansas, from Colorado to Grand-Kingshighway; Washington, from Fourth to Jefferson; Dale, from Manchester to M-land; Lucas, from Third to Seventh; Kingshighway, South-west from Wilmington to Carlsbad.

lately. There were some new and colored inserts in light and dark. Some of the designs were: Plain gray kid with top; cheery-colored kid with ivory brocade; plain bronze kid; black patent leather with a wavy band of color; black patent leather with a piece above the heel, shaped like a Spanish comb, and a heel of light color; black patent leather with white kid top. The man wore tan brocade. Evening wear, as was to be expected, brought the greatest brilliance. Some of the heels were higher than those shown in the afternoon. Very simple straps were used considerably, and there was a lot of brocade and silver kid in abundance. Some of the slippers had counters and toes but no side seams. Among designs were: Silver kid with gold trim; silver kid with brocade toes; silver kid with gold straps; gold kid with silver revealing open cloth; black satin with silver ornaments; brocade of mottled red and gold; black satin without red; gold kid with counters and gold brocade; plain black patent leather.

Color Card for Spring. The convention received a telegram from a recognized authority, Margaret Hayden Rorke, managing director of the Fashion Color Card Association, New York, giving forth the colors for next season. She said, in part:

The most important factor in spring and summer footwear will be color. Soft modulated shades will be in vogue. Pastel, parchment, shell gray, rose blush, dove and steller tan will form the basic color theme, harmonizing with all fashionable garment and millinery colors. Composed colorings such as the gradings of two and three shades of one color also the combining of related color contrasts, a very important fashion note in costume. Simplicity and classic line are the keynote of the pattern, thus demanding classic color interpretation.

The most fashionable garment color for spring will be from pale tints to navy, passing grayish, greenish and brown tones. Black shoes can't be worn with any color, but is not out unless it has a definite color relationship with the outfit; black in frocks, coats and millinery still is very chic. Strongly urge that you stress importance of featuring the right color for the right season. Mr. Baker, welcoming the remarks at the convention luncheon yesterday, told something of the history of shoemaking and said he had been a time when he had had two pairs of shoes. Mr. Brown, a Milwaukee shoe merchant, addressed today's luncheon. Marvin H. Brown of Fort Worth, Tex., also spoke.

TWO YOUNG WOMEN FOUND DEAD NEAR SALT LAKE CITY

Police Suspect Singular Infatuation Caused Them to Take Poison.

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah, Nov. 30.—Police investigating the death of Miss Sarah Lundstedt, 22 years old, and Miss Ruth Drake, 19, Salt Lake girls, whose bodies were found a short distance north of the city Sunday night, are convinced that it was a case of murder and suicide. Letters found and testimony of the Drake girl's mother and close friends show she was obsessed by extraordinary infatuation for Miss Lundstedt.

The latter planned to leave town in a few days for California, and Miss Drake appeared exceedingly melancholy over the prospective separation.

Analysis of liquid found in the bottle by the bodies showed potassium cyanide, according to State Chemist Herman Harms. An autopsy showed the young women's vital organs disclosed as by a strong poison.

Doctors express the opinion that Miss Lundstedt died some time before Miss Drake. The presumption is that Miss Drake by subterfuge persuaded her companion to drink the fatal liquid and later swallowed some herself.

Mrs. Drake quoted as saying she believed her daughter was deranged by the infatuation. She was inclined to the same theory of the deaths as the police, they said.

Relatives and friends of Miss Lundstedt declared she had been somewhat worried and afraid of her companion and had resented certain phases of their attachment. They declare Miss Lundstedt did not care enough for the other girl to enter a suicide agreement. The vital organs of the girls were given to State Chemist Harms for analysis.

MURDER VERDICT REVERSED AFTER WOMAN KILLS SELF

Under Sentence of 20 Years in Prison, She Fears Supreme Court's Action.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Nov. 29.—A woman's sacrifice of her life to escape the odium attached to her name by a conviction on a charge of second degree murder proved yesterday to have been unnecessary.

The woman, Mrs. Nancy Kunkel, 42 years old, died at Kansas City Nov. 6 from the effects of poison she was said to have taken two weeks earlier when brooding over a pending decision in the State Supreme Court on an appeal from the conviction.

Yesterday the Supreme Court in an opinion handed down in Division No. 2, reversed the decision of the Charleston County Circuit Court.

Mrs. Kunkel was convicted of killing William Cowan in Summer, Mo., Sept. 25, 1924. Cowan made a dying statement that Mrs. Kunkel shot him as he stood outside her bedroom window, carrying on a friendly conversation. Mrs. Kunkel testified she had been awakened by a noise outside her window and by curious barking of dogs in the neighborhood. She said she thought a prowler was in the yard and fired a shot from a pistol through the window, and did not know anyone was standing outside the window.

At the time of the shooting Mrs. Kunkel was Mrs. Nancy Humphreys. Her conviction carried with it a sentence of 20 years' imprisonment.

WOMAN FOUND STRANGLED TO DEATH IN HER HOME

Room Bore Evidence of Hand Struggle; Third Similar Case in Portland, Ore., in Few Weeks.

By the Associated Press.

PORTLAND, Ore., Nov. 29.—Mrs. Blanche Myers, 48 years old, was found strangled to death in her home here late last night. A handkerchief was found about her neck and the room bore evidence of a terrific struggle.

This is the third case in which women have been strangled to death here in the last few weeks, and the eighth case of its kind on the Pacific Coast in about seven months. Police are searching for a "dark stranger," whom they believe is responsible for the killings.

In each case the women attacked were elderly or past middle age who had advertised rooms for rent in their homes. The stranger in each case has gained entrance to their homes under pretext of wishing to rent a room.

SLAYER OF AMERICAN CUSTOMS AGENT GIVEN LIFE TERM

Motorist Who Killed Officer in Fight Over Search of Car, Is Convicted of Murder.

By the Associated Press.

BURLINGTON, Vt., Nov. 30.—Walter Mason of Fort Ann, N. Y., hotel proprietor, was found guilty today of second degree murder for shooting to death Customs Agent E. B. Webb. He was given a life sentence. Webb was killed by Mason on the night of Oct. 8, when the customs agent and another officer stopped the hotel man's automobile to search it.

Mason declared he shot in self defense. A previous trial resulted in a disagreement.

Held for Carrying Revolver

When a man stopped by a patrolman at Lamp avenue and Viator street was searched a loaded revolver was found tucked in his waistband. He was held at the Wyoming Street station, where he said he was Elmer Vanhook, 35, of 1807 seventh boulevard, but refused to make any other statement.

DRINK WATER IF KIDNEYS BOTHER

Take a Tablespoonful of Salts if Back Pains or Bladder is Irritated.

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood. They become sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges.

To help neutralize these irritating acids; to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.

SURGEON ADVISES HOW COUNTRY CAN GET GOOD DOCTORS

Dr. Dean Lewis of Johns Hopkins Says Rural Districts Should Build Adequate Hospitals.

THESE WOULD DRAW YOUNG PHYSICIANS

Visitor Is One of Group of 20 Scientists Discussing Professional Problems at Washington U.

Two public complaints that are giving the medical profession growing concern—the low quality of medical service in rural communities and the increasing cost of medical service—were discussed yesterday with a Post-Dispatch reporter by Dr. Dean Lewis, professor of surgery in Johns Hopkins University, one of 20 distinguished scientists and teachers who are spending two days at Washington University in inspections and round-table discussions.

"There can be no doubt that people in the country are entitled to the same high quality of medical treatment that science has brought to the city resident," Dr. Lewis said. "On the other hand, who shall censor the young physician for his reluctance to embark upon his career in the country under present conditions?"

"He has been trained in the better universities to rely on facilities which are not at his disposal in the country. He is well-trained, he has without modern apparatus for diagnosis and treatment which are rare in small towns."

Advocates Rural Hospitals. "If the lack were remedied, much of the dislike of the young physician for the country would disappear. It seems to me that one of the first considerations, then, should be how to establish modern, fully-equipped hospitals in communities where present hospitals are woefully inadequate to modern practice or where no hospitals exist."

"It is quite clear that the state or the county has considerable responsibility in matters of public health. I would suggest that each county establish a complete, modern hospital, in a proper building, equipped with the apparatus which is becoming increasingly important in diagnosis, with a nursing staff properly trained and with funds sufficient for its efficient operation."

"I do not refer to a hospital for the free care of patients, necessarily, but a hospital to which physicians could turn for the assistance that is necessary to successful accomplishment of the many tasks which modern medicine can undertake upon suffering humanity."

Indiana Leads the Way. "Indiana is taking a step in this direction. Many county hospitals are being built there. Is there any good reason why counties should not establish hospitals as readily as they do township high schools? The community hospital would go far toward bringing medical practice in the country to the same high plane that it has attained in the city."

"Of course, the city is not without its own problems. We are hearing more and more the assertion, 'There are only two classes who can afford to be sick nowadays, the very rich or the very poor.' It is very true that with their clinics and out-patient departments, universities, hospitals, the medical profession, have made it possible for the poor to obtain the very best that medical intelligence has to offer for the correction of their ills. The profession is proud of its record in that respect."

"It also is true that the so-called middle class, the vast numbers of salaried families, find sickness a great financial burden. I am entirely out of sympathy with the argument sometimes heard that not all the population can afford $149 overcoats, so why expect the specialists and hospitals and other facilities of medicine that are necessarily costly?"

The Best For Every Sick Person. "Every man, in time of sickness, would be able to command the best that the profession has to offer. I am not prepared to discuss this, but I do think that the burden can be lifted by more intelligent administration of our hospitals."

The present-day city hospital of 250 rooms is an immense institution, much larger than the hotel building of equivalent number of rooms. I think we are near to the day of radical new departures in hospital design—the better utilization of space—and in administration—more skillful and economical direction of all branches, even to feeding and laundry work and the

CRIMINAL JUSTICE BODY ADOPTS PROGRAM OF LAWS MISSOURI SURVEY SUGGESTS

Prepares to Urge Them in Legislature in January — Ex-Judge Hennings Calls Present Code "Obsolete."

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 30.—A legislative program designed to modernize Missouri's criminal code and bring about swifter justice was adopted here today by the board of directors of the Missouri Association for Criminal Justice.

The program is based on the results of a State-wide survey and was formulated by the survey committee and presented to the board of directors at their meeting here at noon.

Bills embodying the various recommendations have been prepared for submission to the State Legislature in January.

Prior to the announcement of the recommendations, former Judge Thomas C. Hennings of St. Louis, president of the association at a City Club luncheon, discussed the results of the survey, which he said had shown the State's criminal code was "obsolete" and that it "coddled" the criminal. The survey showed, he said, that the State's criminal procedure was "just a full of loopholes for the lawbreaker, modeled after old codes governing far different states of society than the present and not embodying the requirements of reasonable protection to the community."

The program recommends: Jury service for women. Trial court to determine grant of change of venue.

Bondsman shall be liable as surety on all other bonds he signed previous to his last. In case of bond forfeiture, hearing to set aside must be held in ten days, after which comes execution. Under the present system the hearing to set aside may be held months after forfeiture.

Quickly report by prosecutor to each judge of the status of uncalled-forfeitures. Trial court to have discretion to refuse bond on appeal after conviction. Six months and not a year after conviction.

minute things that pile up costs. "Few hospitals today are self-supporting even at charges which the public sometimes finds burdensome. All are more or less charitable institutions, with patients who are unable to pay and are not required to pay. But I think that hospital costs can be reduced and will be."

"It is quite clear that the state of the country has considerable responsibility in matters of public health. I would suggest that each county establish a county hospital. It should be a complete, modern hospital, in a proper building, equipped with the apparatus which is becoming increasingly important in diagnosis, with a nursing staff properly trained and with funds sufficient for its efficient operation."

"We are moving forward in city plan. The time is not distant when the location of hospitals designed according to the districts they are to serve will be a description of the forward-looking city plan commission."

Inspect Washington U. The visiting scientists spent yesterday in inspecting the Washington University group of hospitals and in making a description of the thoracic surgery of Dr. Everts Graham, professor of surgery, whose technique has greatly increased the range and authority of operations upon the chest.

Today the group is inspecting the various departments of the medical school here.

Abraham Flexner of New York, director of the General Educational Board, the agency through which John D. Rockefeller makes his gifts to education, joined the group last night and was guest of honor at a dinner in the Racquet Club.

Indiana Leads the Way. "Indiana is taking a step in this direction. Many county hospitals are being built there. Is there any good reason why counties should not establish hospitals as readily as they do township high schools? The community hospital would go far toward bringing medical practice in the country to the same high plane that it has attained in the city."

"Of course, the city is not without its own problems. We are hearing more and more the assertion, 'There are only two classes who can afford to be sick now—day, the very rich or the very poor.' It is very true that with their clinics and out-patient departments, universities, hospitals, the medical profession have made it possible for the poor to obtain the very best that medical intelligence has to offer for the correction of their ills. The profession is proud of its record in that respect."

"It also is true that the so-called middle class, the vast numbers of salaried families, find sickness a great financial burden. I am entirely out of sympathy with the argument sometimes heard that not all the population can afford $100 overcoats, so why expect the specialists and hospitals and other facilities of medicine that are necessarily costly?"

The Best for Every Sick Person. "Every man, in time of sickness, should be able to command the best that the profession has to offer. I am not prepared to discuss this, but I do think that the burden can be lifted by more intelligent administration of our hospitals."

The present-day city hospital of St. Louis is an immense institution, much larger than the hotel building of equivalent number of rooms. I think we are near to the day of radical new departures in hospital design—the better utilization of space and in administration—more skillful and economical selection of all branches, even to heating and laundry work and the 68,000,000 Persons See Fair. CHICAGO, Nov. 30.—More than 68,000,000 persons paid admissions to see fairs in the United States last season, Ralph T. Hemphill, Oklahoma City, told the annual convention of the Midwestern Fair Circuit, in session here. Eighty of the largest fairs drew 16,000,000, an average of about 200,000 per fair.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The American Museum of Natural History receives $1,000,000 from the estate of Wood Fodick, broker, appraisal of whose estate was filed today. The Children's Aid Society receives $50,000. Mr. Fodick died April 6 last.

NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The directors met late today to consider two bills already prepared for examination by the Legislature. One of these provides home rule of police in Kansas City and St. Louis, terminating the present appointment of Police Commissioners by the Governor, while the other would establish a State constabulary, augmenting the work of Sheriffs.

The directors are considering a series of bills dealing with the eventual abolition of the office of Coroner. All recommendations for bills were approved at a conference of Missouri legislators with the association at St. Louis last September.

HEIR TO BRITISH BARONETCY ELECTED BY LABORITE VOTERS. Lieutenant-Commander J. M. Kenworthy, Who Quit Liberal Party, Returned to Parliament.

HULL, England, Nov. 30.—Lieutenant-Commander Joseph M. Kenworthy's switch from the Liberal to the Labor party has been approved by the voters. In today's bye-election, he was returned to parliament by a party affiliation. He was returned to Parliament with 16,145 votes, as against 11,466 for L. E. Gaunt, Conservative, and 2,885 for Col. C. J. Kerr, Liberal.

By the Associated Press. Labor's latest recruit in the House of Commons, Lieutenant-Commander J. M. Kenworthy, is one of the most picturesque figures in the British Parliament.

Kenworthy is a born fighter. He served in the Royal Navy from 1902 until 1920, hence his rank. He was boxing champion of the fleet, and has taken his pugacity into politics.

As son and heir of the ninth Baron Strabolgi, Kenworthy is destined for a peerage. A Peer cannot sit in the House of Commons and one explanation of his switch from liberalism is that he has the habit of much time to spare in the arena of active politics, and believes he can best attain his ambitions by joining forces with the laborites.

U. S. STEMS IMMIGRATION. WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—The flow of immigration into the United States has been stemmed by an intelligent selection of aliens at the ports of embarkation, Secretary of Labor Davis said today, in his annual report.

An outstanding accomplishment in the Immigration Bureau's administration in 1926, the report said, was the extension of the foreign service to continental Europe, technical advisers on immigration questions having been assigned to Great Britain, Belgium, the Netherlands, Poland, Germany, Norway, Denmark and Sweden. A decrease in the number of immigrants from the United States last year, the report added, resulted in 1926 was 496,106, the 1926 total of 270,074 being rejected. The total number of aliens admitted during 1926 was 496,106, compared to 458,435 with 164,121 nonimmigrants in 1925.

U. S. RIGHT TO LIMIT WHISKY IS UPHELD BY SUPREME COURT

Minority of Four Judges Dissents, Declaring Power of Medicinal Output Should Be the State's.

VALUE OF LIQUOR AS MEDICINE DISPUTED

Justice Sutherland Asserts Constitution's Design Is to Let States Control Their Own Local Affairs.

Post-Dispatch Bureau, 20-23 Wyck Building. WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—In the opinion of four members of the United States Supreme Court, Congress usurped a right of the several states of the union, left to them by the first paragraph of the eighteenth amendment, when it prohibited a physician from prescribing more than a pint of spirituous liquor for one person within 10 days.

In opposition to this opinion, five members, a majority, held that the second paragraph of the same amendment gave Congress the right to limit the kind and the quantity of alcoholic liquor a physician might legally prescribe.

The majority opinion was handed down yesterday by Justice Brandeis, in the case of Dr. Samuel W. Lambert of New York, who sought to enjoin the acting prohibition director, E. C. Yellowley, from interfering with his prescription of spirituous liquor for medicinal purposes. Brandeis was supported by Chief Justice Taft and Justices Holmes, Vandeventer and Sanford.

The minority opinion was written by Justice Sutherland and had the concurrence of Justices McReynolds, Stone and Butler.

District Court Reversed. The majority sustained the findings of the Second Circuit Court, which had reversed the decision of the District Court in New York. Brandeis held that the eighteenth amendment, besides prohibiting manufacture, sale and transportation of intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, conferred upon Congress the right to enforce prohibition by appropriate legislation.

Brandeis recalled the decision on the Willis-Campbell case, which prohibited physicians from prescribing malt liquors. He stated that the public hearings on this bill revealed that practicing physicians were divided as to the therapeutic value of malt, vinous and spirituous liquors, but that the preponderance of opinion was against their use.

Sutherland, for the minority, took exception to most of the comments advanced by the majority. He put his case on a straight State's rights basis.

"The general design of the Federal Constitution is to give to the Federal Government control over national and international matters, leaving to the several states the control of local affairs," he declared.

"Prior to the adoption of the eighteenth amendment, the direct control of the manufacture, sale and use of intoxicating liquors for all purposes was exclusively under the delegated powers of the states, and there still remains, save insofar as it has been taken away by the words of the amendment."

Quotes Earlier Amendment. "These words are perfectly plain and cannot be extended beyond their import without violating the fundamental rule that the Government of the United States is one of the powers delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the states, are reserved to the states respectively or to the people." The words quoted by Sutherland are from the tenth amendment.

Another Alleged Substitution. It may interest the editors of North America to know this was not the only "faked" picture in these articles. A United States engineer operating mines in Mexico, Mr. E. R. Torgler of Cleveland, Ohio, had a letter in the New York Times of Nov. 14, charging that a picture which "Liberty" claimed depicted the hanging of persons in Navarrete as a result of a religious riot was in reality a hanging of a communication received by the traffic bureau of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce.

He declares agreement was reached in the last Congress that the rivers and harbors bill should be taken up Dec. 14 and final consideration of the measure will be started Dec. 20. Gooding's measure would prohibit lower freight charge for a long haul than for a shorter one over the same route.

PRIEST ARRESTED IN MEXICO. By the Associated Press. EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 30.—Father Mariano Guerrero, in charge of Catholic churches at Tequila, San Jose and San Juan, El Paso County, was arrested in Juarez Saturday and sent to Chihuahua City under guard of Federal troops. Gen. Ramon Lopez, commander of the Juarez garrison, announced today. Father Guerrero was arrested after a weekly visit among prisoners in the Juarez city jail, charged with "practicing religion," Gen. Lopez said.

Belgian Consul Reports Situation as "Extremely Grave." By the Associated Press. BRUSSELS, Belgium, Nov. 30.—The Belgian Consul General at Hankow, China, reports that the situation there is "extremely grave." Together with the Belgian Minister in Peking, he is taking measures to protect Belgian interests.

It is important also to bear in mind the direct control of the medical practice in the states is beyond the power of the Federal Government." He quoted from the case of Linder versus the United States. "Congress therefore cannot."

Inglorious End of the Catalan Revolt

—Reynolds & Atlantic Photo. TWENTY-SIX prisoners who took part in the plot to separate Catalonia from Spain are shown being inspected in the courtyard of the Palace of Justice, in Paris. ## CHARGES DECEPTION IN WILSON VOICED HOPE MEXICAN PEOPLE WOULD GET LAND

Consul - General Elias Says False Titles Were Used on Photographs by "Liberty."

Consul General de Mexico, New York, N. Y., Nov. 26, 1926.

Editor Post-Dispatch: In the interests of fair play to the people of Mexico, I wish to submit to all editors in North America the enclosed exhibits.

One is a photograph of page 55 of the issue of the weekly magazine "Liberty," you will notice a picture printed thereon purporting to be that of "Catholics withdrawing deposits from the Bank of Mexico in protest against the seizure of church property."

The other exhibit is a copy of the picture taken in front of the Bank of Mexico on its opening Sept. 1, 1925, eleven months before the attempted boycott.

The pictures are the same. In reality, in place of being a picture as claimed by "Liberty" of persons "taking funds out of the Bank of Mexico, it is a picture of persons waiting to put funds in the new bank after it had been officially declared open by President Calles with government officials was present within.

Tracing Picture to Its Source. It is not my purpose to enter into any criticism of the series of articles on Mexico in "Liberty." The contents of these are their business, not mine. It is my business, however, and the business of every editor who cherishes the ethics of his profession to protest against such a deliberate attempt to deceive the public of North America as to happenings in Mexico.

On Sept. 2, 1925, the morning of the day following the opening of the Bank of Mexico, "El Demócrata," a paper then publishing in Mexico City, published the same picture of the inauguration of the new Bank that "Liberty," the magazine owned by the Chicago Tribune, tricked a portion of the American public into believing was a picture of something entirely different.

Old Order Is Dead. "The dangers that beset the republic are held to be the individual and corporate troubles of a man, not the aggregated rights and interests of the people. Of course, it would not do for us to insist on an exact procedure for the partition of the land, for example, for that would set us up in the position of dictators, which we are not and never shall be; but it is not our intention to cease in our friendly offices until we are assured that all these matters are on their way to successful settlement."

"It is a great and complicated question, but I have every hope that a suitable solution will be found and that the day will come when the Mexican people will be put in full possession of the land, the liberty and the peaceful prosperity that are rightfully theirs."

LONG AND SHORT HAUL BILL. Senator Gooding to Reoffer Measure Once Defeated.

SPOKANE, Wash., Nov. 30.—United States Senator Frank R. Gooding of Idaho will reoffer his long and short haul bill, defeated in the last session of Congress, as an amendment to the rivers and harbors appropriation bill at the opening of Congress, he declares in a communication received by the traffic bureau of the Spokane Chamber of Commerce.

He declares agreement was reached in the last Congress that the rivers and harbors bill should be taken up Dec. 14 and final consideration of the measure will be started Dec. 20. Gooding's measure would prohibit lower freight charge for a long haul than for a shorter one over the same route.

NEW PRESIDENT IN PORTUGAL. By the Associated Press. LISBON, Nov. 30.—Gen. Carmona, Premier and dictator, has assumed power as President of Portugal. The presidency was relinquished by Bernardino Machado last June.

Carmona was a party to the military upheaval in Portugal last June when the army stepped in to accomplish that which Parliament and the civilian authorities had failed to do. With Gen. Gomes da Costa and Commander Mendes Cabecadas, he overthrew the constitutional Government. Then followed a series of political somersaults by which Gen. Gomes ousted Commander Cabecadas, only to meet a similar fate at the hands of Gen. Carmona. Upon Congress devolves the sole power to elect the President of Portugal.

Greek Coalition Rule in Thursday. ATHENS, Nov. 30.—A coalition Government, consisting of members of all the five political parties, will be formed Thursday. The present service Cabinet, headed by Gen. George Kondilis, will then resign.

An agreement already has been reached along general lines. The coalition Government will appoint a special commission to restore service and eliminate incapable elements. The Royalists have agreed to vote on a Constitution. The Ministers of War and Marine will be entrusted to civilians.

Conditions at Foochow are approaching a state of civil war and disorder is threatened. The Southerners are opposed in their advance there only by one brigade of Northern troops under Tsuchun Chow Yin-Jen, provincial ruler. All other Fukienese troops having withdrawn within the city.

American Destroyers Leave Shanghai for Hankow. SHANGHAI, Nov. 30.—The British fleet leader Koppel left here for Hankow this morning. American destroyers Peary and John D. Ford left for that place yesterday. Foreign Consuls Expect Troops to Leave City Unprotected.

By the Associated Press. PEKING, Nov. 30.—Foreigners in Hankow and Foochow are facing an ominous situation as the result of the defeat of the Northern troops in the vicinity of the former city, and the advances of the victorious Cantonese soldiers toward the latter place on their way to attack Shanghai.

Conditions at Foochow are approaching a state of civil war and disorder is threatened. The Southerners are opposed in their advance there only by one brigade of Northern troops under Tsuchun Chow Yin-Jen, provincial ruler. All other Fukienese troops having withdrawn within the city.

BRITISH MARINES LAND AT HANKOW TO AID FOREIGNERS

French Naval Forces Also Debark as Result of Victory by Canton Troops Over Pekinese.

FOREIGNERS FACE FOOD SHORTAGE

Correspondent of London Paper Describes Crisis as "Gravest in China Since the Boxer Rebellion."

By the Associated Press. LONDON, Nov. 30.—British and French sailors and marines have landed at Hankow and it is reported that United States marines also went ashore to co-operate with them in what is described in special dispatches as "the gravest crisis in China since the boxer rebellion."

The trouble is due to the defeat of Pekin Government forces by the troops of the Canton Government. Strains is laid upon the seriousness of the situation at Hankow by the correspondents. They assert that a shortage of food is threatened; that the Chinese refuse to supply foreigners with servants. Foreigners in Shanghai are reported to be purchasing food and shipping it to Hankow to avert privations to fellow countrymen in the concessions.

In the House of Commons, replying to a question concerning the situation at Hankow, Foreign Secretary Chamberlain said he had been informed in a communication from the British community there that there was fear of untoward incidents involving bloodshed. The protection afforded by the British naval forces, the communication added, was considered inadequate.

River Too Low for Ships. It is thought the British Government at present has no intention of ordering further naval units to China, it being considered that the vessels now on the Yangtze River are sufficient to deal with any crisis. The difficulty is that the river is so low that naval vessels cannot navigate them with safety.

The forces of the Fukienese Marshal Sun Chuan-Fang, are retreating toward Foochow before the Cantonese advance. A dispatch from Shanghai says anxiety is felt there for the safety of foreigners at Foochow. The Civil Governor of Fukien province said he had decided to prevent the retreating forces from entering Foochow lest disturbances and looting would result.

The new British Minister, Miles W. Lamson, is due at Shanghai from Hongkong. His arrival there is anxiously awaited.

Attitude of Canton Regime. The advance of the Cantonese forces and the resignation of the Pekin Government have centered attention on this phase of the Chinese situation. Whether the Cantonese Government can become a concrete governing body, which the foreign nations can deal with is a question on which opinion differs.

The prevailing view and that accepted generally in official quarters is that the Cantonese Government, should it gain control of all China, is too completely Bolshevik to be trusted and that it will force an anti-foreign policy, including denunciation of foreign treaties.

On the other hand, the opinion in Liberal quarters as expressed by an editorial in today's Star, favors an attempt to negotiate with the Cantonese, the Star says:

"Here at least is one real Government with which it may be possible to come to some sort of terms. It may well be that negotiations would be abortive; at least they are worth trying. British trade and British prestige are suffering disastrously and it is surely worth trying to save something from the wreckage."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Il Governo Italiano.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I AM in receipt of a letter from a lady in Italy in which she tells me some things concerning the Fascist system, about which I have, as yet, read nothing in our papers. It reminds me of my visit to the Palace of the Doges in Venice, where in one room is shown an opening into which one could, in earlier days, anonymously drop an accusation against some fellow citizen, which accusation the secret council would then act upon as it saw fit, and it generally saw fit to believe the accusation.

This Italian lady tells me that if you are in some one's way in business or socially, you can call him a Socialist or an anti-Fascist and thus get the adherence of the new regime to mistreat him. It appears, for example, that her husband had a business competitor who wasn't faring quite as well as her husband, so the rival circulated reports alleging he was a Socialist in sentiment, which resulted in her husband being attacked by a party of men one day and so severely beaten up that he had to be in bed almost two weeks. Furthermore, his business was ruined, so that now he is compelled to accept some menial position.

She says defamation and bribery are the order of the day in obtaining advantages over others. One hundred lire is the tariff rate for shuffling a person off the face of the earth. And should a murderer be brought before the court he is freed—because "an anti-Fascist is not a human being."

She asks if I have read of the fourth "official" attack on Mussolini's life. She says there were three others which have not been officially published, but about which many rumors are whispered around.

She tells me about the press, which is no longer free. If an editor objects to a bought, his journal is suppressed. Of this we have already heard much.

Alas, poor Italy! What did she gain by the war? Certainly no safe democracy.

Churches in Politics.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

ASSUMING as justifiable the attitude in our politics of the Methodist Church, as stated by Rev. Clarence True Wilson in the Forum and Literary Digest of Nov. 15, 1926, what becomes of the ancient objection to the exercise of temporal power by the head of the Catholic Church? Is not the Methodist Church thus admittedly undermining the provisions of our Constitution and Bill of Rights for the complete separation of Church and State?

While no church, in this country is supported by taxation, church property is exempt from taxation, which is equivalent to additional taxation on other character of properties for the indirect benefit of the churches. If this financial advantage is to be employed by the churches in adding them to control the secular affairs of the nation, might we not as well, as a political proposition, have the churches supported directly by taxation and delegate to their control of all so-called moral and religious questions? And if so, what becomes of our national theory of complete separation of Church and State?

Good citizenship must be developed through the teachings of Christ. It was the theory of the founders of this Government that the limited province of the churches was to so mold the character of the individual citizen that he might the better exercise his sovereign powers; not that the churches in their organized capacity should direct the affairs of State on moral, religious or any other question.

Suffering Caused by Smoke.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

WHY suffer? Have a heart. Having read the letter headed "Cannot Stand the Smoke," I thoroughly agree with "St. Louisan" on the smoke menace.

I have lived in St. Louis for the past four years and like your city in many ways, although there is considerable room for improvement on many subjects, but the smoke problem is the only one that distresses me.

I had never known what sinus and throat trouble were until after my stay here, through a winter or two, and now I go through real agony from breathing this terrible gas and smoke, and feel sure if I continue to stay here, as badly as I dislike leaving, I'll end a fit subject for the Koch Hospital. I look to each winter with dread, as I know just exactly the suffering that awaits me.

I feel sure there are thousands of people right among us who feel the same way and would forever be thankful to the city officials who are in authority to "make St. Louis a clean city for humanity."

Work for Queen Marie.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

MAY I thank you for your valuable article which appeared in your paper on Nov. 25 with the title "After the Queen." The Queen is having a country of liberty and freedom and I hope she will try to have the same system adopted in her own country and stop the persecution of the Jews, as well as the other nationalities.

THE MEXICAN SQUABBLE.

The Post-Dispatch has been in and out of accord with the position of the Washington Government touching the retroactive enforcement of the Mexican land and mineral laws, adopted in accord with the 1917 Constitution. The United States protests against the application of the confiscatory land laws to lands and mineral rights owned by Americans under legitimate titles recognized by the Mexican Government previous to the adoption of the radical Constitution of 1917.

This policy, formulated by Secretary Hughes, has been adhered to consistently by his successor.

It was assumed that complete agreement between the two Governments had been arranged through the negotiations of John Barton Payne and Charles B. Warren, the American commissioners, with two Mexican commissioners. An understanding was reached by the commissioners to the effect that the legitimate rights of American citizens in lands, oil and other, would be recognized and maintained by the Mexican Government.

Recent notes, however, exchanged between Secretary Kellogg and Foreign Minister Saez of the Mexican Government, indicate a determination on the part of Mexico to proceed with the enforcement of the new land laws, without regard to the validity of titles and making no exception of legitimate titles acquired by Americans. Foreign owners of lands in Mexico will be required, after Jan. 1, to exchange limited concessions for vested rights and to surrender for sale to Mexicans all corporation stock in excess of 49 per cent.

Secretary Kellogg, in his notes, has been trying to get Foreign Minister Saez to guarantee American rights in recognition of the supposed agreement existing between the two nations. Saez rejects the agreement as not binding, because it is not embodied in a treaty and has not been formally ratified. He tells Secretary Kellogg it will be time enough to protest when a concrete case of confiscation of lands held through legitimate title by American citizens occurs. That is as far as he will go. Secretary Kellogg clearly threatens withdrawal of recognition, which was based upon the agreement as to land titles.

That the foreshadowed action of the Mexican Government should cause anxiety in Washington is natural. If Minister Saez is sincere in his implication that the Mexican Government will not violate the rights of American citizens, or international law, his suggestion that Secretary Kellogg await a concrete case is justifiable. On the other hand, if Mexico intends to enforce its laws against all titles, it would be rather late for the United States to move after that action has been taken, especially in view of the agreement existing between the two Governments.

Secretary Kellogg would find it difficult to justify hostile action on the anticipation of Mexico's violation of the agreement and of international law. We believe it would be wise for him to await the concrete case.

Confidence in the sincerity of our own State Department is shaken by the exposure of an attempt on the part of Assistant Secretary of State Robert E. Olds to spread a story of bolshevistic activities by Mexico through the press of the United States, without responsibility on the part of the State Department. Mr. Olds called together the representatives of the press associations in Washington and gave out the information which he said had come to the knowledge of the State Department, which he wanted them to print without authorization from the State Department.

It is difficult to see what motive the State Department or any of its officials could have in spreading a story of that kind, except to excite popular suspicion or hostility against Mexico. Irresponsible propaganda of this kind is abominable, especially when there is a crisis between the two nations on a legitimate issue.

The only justification for any hostile action on the part of the United States with regard to Mexico would be the actual deprivation of American citizens of legitimate rights and titles acquired and recognized by Mexico under previous laws. A just peace is what we want with Mexico, and in as far as we can obtain it, friendly co-operation. The Coolidge administration will make a fearful blunder if it goes beyond the limits of this policy.

A DESPERATE EXPEDIENT.

Justice Hoehling dealt a knockout blow to legal trickery when he ruled that Doherty's own story of the $100,000 "loan" to Albert B. Fall might be admitted in evidence, as well as Fall's version, as related before the Senate investigating committee.

Last week Fall and Doherty's attorneys argued at great length and by the employment of ingenious legal devices that what Fall and Doherty of their own free will told the Senate committee should not be permitted to be considered in the fraud case.

They asked the Judge to bar from consideration a fact that every man on the street knows to be a fact; a fact around which the Government's case is necessarily built.

It was a desperate expedient, but the legal history of this case since Fall and Doherty were indicted in 1924 is a history of desperate legal expedients.

POKER'S FUNNY DAY IN COURT.

The Supreme Court of the Philippines has ruled that draw poker is a game of chance. The high tribunal, it should be said, does not wholly exclude skill from the green-baize conference. It concedes that the consummate artist in bluffing may corral the chips occasionally, even though he hold the poorer hand. But such triumphs, it insists, however embellished and multiplied in the apocrypha of the pastime, are rare exceptions. Lady Luck, it is decreed, is the arbiter of fortune, and the legends and anecdotes which purport to catalogue poker as a battle of wits, a contest in facial control, a psychological duel, are mere propaganda.

How those little brown cousins of ours will react to this pronouncement is yet to be shown. But if insular public opinion concurs in this judgment, then Philippine independence is an iridescent dream. A people that believes draw poker a game of chance is too naïve to be turned loose on its own in this cruel world. The mordant truth is that draw poker, for all its jovial affections, for all its simulated camaraderie, is cold and ruthless science, in which Lady Luck cuts as inconsequential a figure as an obsolete chorus girl.

Finally, what shall we say of the American occupation of the Philippines which, after a quarter of a century, leaves this people still enmeshed in the superstition that draw poker is a game of chance? What shall we say—Oh, you say it.

FOR CONSPICUOUS SERVICE.

Mr. Vare feels this way about it: the next best thing to being a Senator oneself is to see that a reliable friend gets the job. By now Mr. Vare realizes that his chances for being seated are not of the best. The revelations of his primary expenditures have been succeeded by odd developments since the election, such as the fact that Mr. Wilson, Vare's Democratic opponent, got no votes at all in 30 Philadelphia precincts, 10 votes or less in 397 precincts and only 1407 votes in 427 precincts. Vare's Philadelphia vote put him across.

There is, therefore, much talk of a possible successor to Vare. One interesting name is that of James Elverson, publisher of the Philadelphia Inquirer. Mr. Elverson's claim is based on loyalty. He refused to bolt Vare after Senator Reed's committee had unearthed the facts about the primary. He clung to Vare through the election. Mr. Elverson's friends consider this conspicuous service.

It is, in truth, conspicuous service. Championship of Vare toward the end got to be a lonely kind of job. The Republican Public Ledger couldn't swallow Vare and got off the bandwagon. A Republican Senator, Norris, was rousing the State with speeches for Vare's opponent. Pennsylvania Republicans outside Philadelphia were repudiating Vare by wholesale. The press of the nation, with various degrees of intensity, were expressing their sense of shock at the Pennsylvania business.

Perhaps the explanation of Elverson's refusal to desert a sinking ship is now at hand. Having allowed himself and his newspaper to be smeared with the Vare virus, he now evidently is willing to take Vare's job for himself. And what more could Vare desire, if he is rejected by the Senate?

LIQUOR AS MEDICINE.

Appearing as oracular as the United States Supreme Court would have to be were it entirely wise upon all the scores presented to it, must sometimes make the country smile.

There was such a smile yesterday, we feel sure. By a vote of five to four this august tribunal, which could not possibly know whether it is right or wrong, and proved as much by a hair division, decided that a pint of whisky every 10 days is all a patient should have. It says a preponderance of medical opinion supports this view, but it does not tell us how it knows this. It does not know it, of course; but having decided at the outset that the Volstead law is constitutional it finds it necessary to shore up that original opinion every now and then with a subsidiary opinion of the same sort.

The United States Supreme Court does not know how much whisky a patient ought to have, if he ought to have any, and nobody but the prohibitionists expect it to know. Doctors themselves are torn by a grave difference of opinion in this momentous matter. If they were not, it would not be necessary for the United States Supreme Court to amuse the country by undertaking to say which doctors are right. The court expressed a belief that some of the liquor prescribed for medicinal purposes is used as a beverage; but since the Volstead law permits whisky to be used medicinally, such an expression can mean no more than that the court, in addition to passing upon a medical question, as to which the country is quite aware of its unprofessional qualifications, also wanted to toss the white elephant a little hay.

Let us hope that the five grave gentlemen who have decided that a pint of whisky every 10 days is enough for any patient will not be called upon as experts in any case of illness. We may be sure that none of the four dissenting Judges will ever so call upon them.

WHAT PURITAN GIRLS ARE DOING.

Miss Eleanor Sears has again made the hike from Providence to her home town of Boston—doing the stroll this time in 9 hours and 53 minutes, or 38 minutes faster than her promenade of last December.

But if that leads you to think that New England is speeding up just stop off at Northampton and meet Mrs. Estelle Woodward, a gay, dashing widow of 65 romantic summers, who has eloped with her 21-year-old chauffeur.

Massachusetts—there she stands—might be amended to Massachusetts—there she goes.

So Wayne B. Wheeler is waning.

A DEFICIT AS AN OPPORTUNITY.

The New York Times, usually a clear-thinking paper, is not ready to approve the Democratic plan in Congress for a permanent tax cut of $325,000,000, for, it says, "they have not yet shown what are the grounds for confidence that such a lowering of the public revenue could safely be made over the years to follow." It asks, what if the Democrats should win the 1928 election, after the tax cut, and face a deficit? And it answers, they would either be compelled to borrow or lay increased taxes.

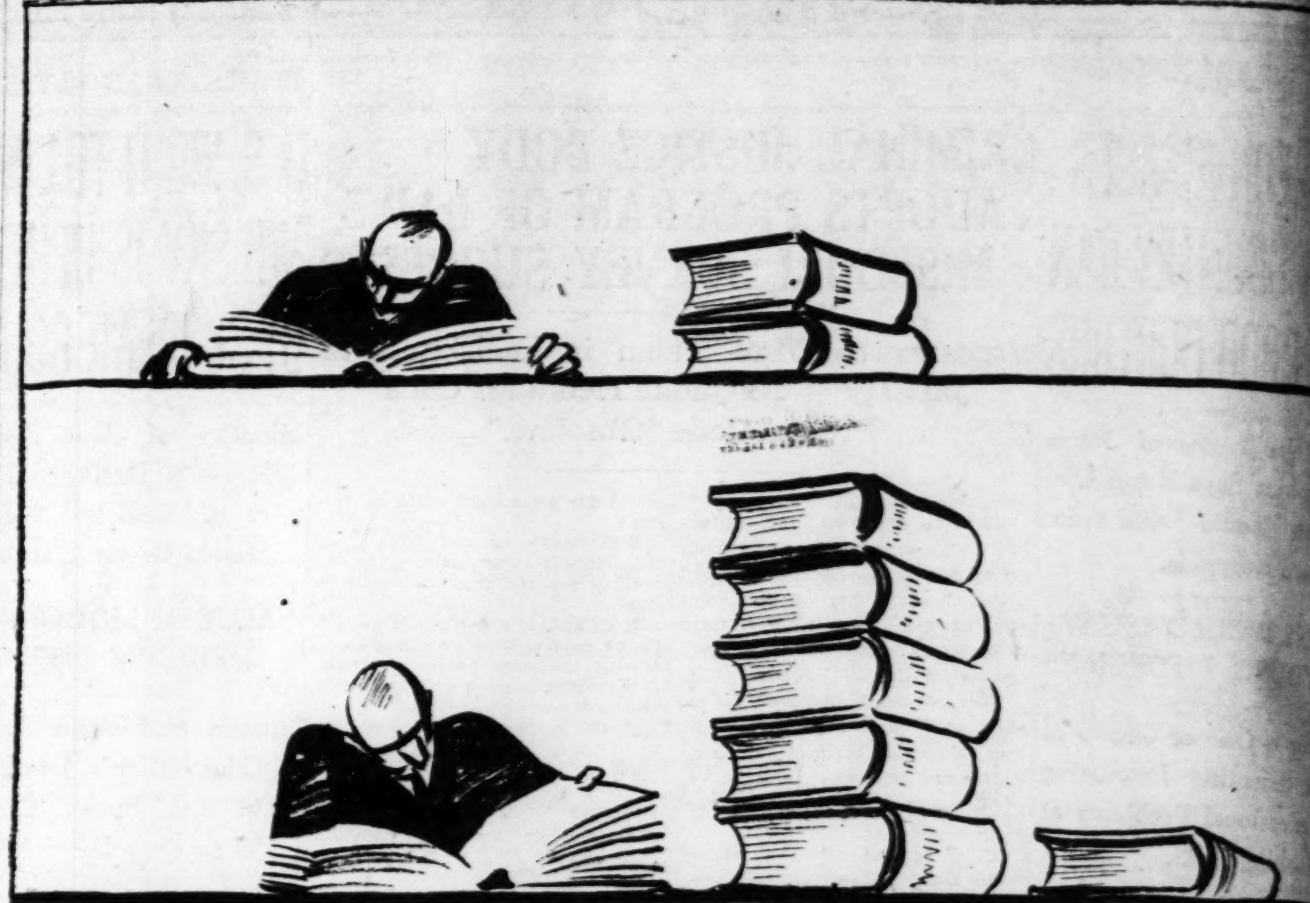

It never seems to occur to anyone that Government is under any duty to economize; even in hard times. If there is a deficit, it is to be met not by retrenchment but by new taxes. Yet if the Democratic party in Congress should effect the proposed tax cut, it if should win the 1928 election and find a deficit, nothing would be so favorable to enforced economies, even if the Democratic party was disinclined to rededicate itself to one of its historic aims—compelling frugality in public expenditures.

In Jefferson's first administration, "the suppression of unnecessary offices, of useless establishments and expenses enabled us to discontinue our internal taxes." He even wrote to his Secretary of the Treasury:

I have always forgotten to ask of you a general idea of the effect of the peace on our revenues, so far as we have gone. It is of the utmost importance, if these diminish, to diminish our expenses.

There never was another Government on earth where waste and extravagance, in duplication of offices and otherwise, are so wanton as at Washington; where there are so many boards and bureaux eating up taxes, while-shackling the individual and private industry. The abolishment of these would not only save untold millions, but would inaugurate a veritable new emancipation from governmental servitude.

Surely, if a deficit should come, we could dispense with that board engaged in teaching watch-making, or that other solemnly occupied in trying to determine the proper length of ladies' stockings. In a sense, a deficit is welcome, in that it would afford an opportunity to test the arrogance of the administration that must deal with it.

FAITHFUL TO A TRUST.

From the Editor and Publisher.

THE newspaper editor cannot always escape the distasteful roles of disinterested and hard-hearted policeman. However much material and selfish advantage dictate the employment of resources "useful" channels, the inevitable requirements of the profession command that equity in public office be revealed and pursued to the end. Upon those requirements are built the entire structure of the constitutional guarantee of free press, upon the press has built the public confidence that today brings it its due share of national prosperity. It is not to be said that the St. Louis Post-Dispatch could be employed to much more immediate purpose the mental energy, the time and the space which were expended in the investigation of charges that Judge English, sitting the Illinois District of the Federal bench was guilty of malfeasance in office in the pursuit of the fruits of that investigation to its ultimate conclusion—the impeachment in Washington, while the reward, but for three years the Post-Dispatch carried its fight to the Supreme Court. EMMA EAMES WRITING
MEMOIRS IN HER HOME

Once Famous Prima Donna, Who Dislikes Radio, Warns Singers Against 'Come-Back.'

By the Associated Press.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—Emma Eames, prima donna, is enjoying her home and writing her memoirs.

"When you strike your high note," she is her advice, and she adheres to it. Only once since her retirement in 1912 has she made a public appearance. It was in 1916 at a church charity concert in Portland, Me. She declares she never will sing again in public.

"Never try to stage a 'come-back,'" she advises singers especially. "Perhaps I made a mistake by retiring so soon, from a financial standpoint, but I left the public with memories of my voice at its best. I am comfortable. I have achieved success, I am told, and perhaps I have left a memory among my hearers which is more beautiful than if my voice had weakened through trying to sing a few more years."

Miss Eames, not yet 60, looks 30 years younger. She is living quietly in Paris, not far from the Invalides.

She and her husband, Emilio de Gogorza, are particularly proud of their apartment, which expresses the taste of a great artist, and in which they have lived since last January, moving in when the mansions were still at work on the interior of the lower floors. It was while climbing the littered stairways to the fourth floor, where her apartment is located, that she strained her heart and the muscles of one leg, as a result of which she became a partial invalid.

Dislikes Radio and War. The large entrance hall is really a library. The dining room, which she likes most, is a real New England one for which she brought furnishings from her home in Bath when she left Maine in 1923 to make her home in Paris, to escape the cold winters.

Working on her memoirs and receiving a few friends occasionally occupies the time of the singer.

Mme. Eames is an ardent conservationist, a lover of the movies but an enemy of the radio. "I never did like squeaks and I don't like static," she declared. "When I hear a music I want to relax and be bathed in it, and that is impossible with radio."

Mme. Eames hates war and refuses to enter Germany eight years after the armistice.

EMMA EAMES WRITING MEMOIRS IN HER HOME

Once Famous Prima Donna, Who Dislikes Radio, Warns Singers Against 'Come-Back.'

PARIS, Nov. 30.—Emma Eames, prima donna, is enjoying her home and writing her memoirs.

"When you strike your high note, it is her advice, and she adheres to it. Only once since her retirement in 1912 has she made a public appearance. It was in 1916 at a church charity concert in Portland, Me. She declares she never will sing again in public.

"Never try to stage a 'come-back,' she advises singers especially. "Perhaps I made a mistake in retiring so soon, from a financial standpoint, but I left the public with memories of my voice at its best. I am comfortable; I have achieved success, I am told, and I am happy. I have no regrets, and I am proud of my record. I have no regrets, and I am proud of my record. I have no regrets, and I am proud of my record.

Sixty, but Looks Younger. Mrs. Eames is not yet 60, looks 40 years younger. She is living quietly in Paris, not far from the home of the invalids.

She and her husband, Emilio de Gogorza, are particularly proud of their apartment, which occupies the top of a great artist, and in which they have lived since last January, moving in when the mansions were still at work on the interior of the lower floors.

It was while climbing the littered stairways to the fourth floor, where her apartment is located, that she strained her heart and the muscles of one leg, as a result of which she became a partial invalid.

Dislikes Radio and War. The large entrance hall is really a library. The dining room, which she likes most, is a real New England one for which she brought furnishings from her home in New York when she left Maine in 1923 to make her home in Paris, to escape the cold winters.

Working on her memoirs and receiving a few friends occasionally occupies the time of the singer.

Mrs. Eames is an ardent concertgoer, a lover of the movies but an enemy of the radio. "I never like to see a singer on the radio," she declared. "When I hear music, I want to relax and be lulled to sleep, and that is impossible with radio."

Mrs. Eames hates war and refuses to enter Germany eight years after the armistice.

ROCKEFELLER'S PHYSICIAN WILL BE BURIED TOMORROW

Dr. Biggar, Who Wanted to Play Golf With John D. on Their 100th Birthday, Succumbs.

By the Associated Press. CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 30.—Dr. Hamilton Flisk Biggar, friend and personal physician of John D. Rockefeller, will be buried tomorrow. He died yesterday in his eighty-seventh year. He was known as a leader of medical endeavor here for 60 years. He based his longevity on modern standards of living.

Dr. Biggar expounded to the millionaire oil king his theory that "the less you eat the longer you will live."

And with his passing death intervened in the traditions of two staunch old friends who had hoped to live to be 100 and planned to celebrate their hundredth birthdays in a game of golf.

For years the association of the two men was unique. When Rockefeller's health was undermined with an attack of acute dyspepsia, Dr. Biggar regulated Rockefeller's diet. When the oil magnate was threatened with a cold, Dr. Biggar sent him to bed and otherwise looked after Rockefeller's health, taking his temperature and advising him daily.

Yet Dr. Biggar took no credit for the longevity of the oil king, but frequently turned the tables by asserting that John D. was his physician. "I've learned to keep well from him," the doctor said a few months ago. "I've often said he would live to be 100, and we would have a golfing engagement for our one hundredth birthdays."

They were born in the same year. Although Dr. Biggar had been failing for more than a year, he seemed possessed of unusual vitality and even last February rallied from a major operation. His death was attributed to infirmities brought on by his age.

ROBINSON SAYS TAX CUT SHOULD INCLUDE TARIFF

Declares Reduction Would Stimulate Foreign Trade and Afford Relief to Farmers.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Announcing a Democratic program for the short congressional session, Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the minority leader, declared today that particular attention would be given to farm relief, tax reduction and legislation to prevent corrupt practices in senatorial primaries.

The Democrats, he said, are to co-operate in the establishment of a liberal policy for the relief of agriculture and it is "unfair" for administration leaders to attempt to "shift responsibility for the prospective failure" to enact adequate farm relief to Democratic members from the South.

"My view is that any machinery authorized by national legislation for dealing with surplus agricultural products," he added, "should be set up and maintained by the farmers themselves. Through their co-operative and voluntary action alone can limitation of production essential to the maintenance of just prices over a long period be accomplished."

The Democratic leader declared the administration tax credit proposal would violate fundamental principles of government.

"The Democratic theory of taxation is that the taxing power must be employed only to the extent required for necessary revenues," he said. As the present laws produce an excess of revenues, these laws as a matter of right and justice should be reformed so as to eliminate irksome, vexatious and unnecessary tax charges. A mere refund is not only unjust but it is to be condemned, because it does not safeguard the future against unnecessary tax charges.

Tariff reduction in Senator Robinson's opinion should be included. "As it would reduce the cost of living, stimulate foreign commerce, afford substantial farm relief and be regarded abroad as an evidence of friendliness."

not directly restrict the professional judgment of the physician or interfere with its free exercise in the treatment of disease. Whatever power exists in that respect belongs to the states exclusively."

Opposed to Generalizations.

Taking up the point that the Supreme Court had held the Williams-Campbell act unconstitutional, said: "We have the fact that Congress, acting upon the report of one of its committees made after exhaustive hearings, declared by statute that the prescription of malt liquors should be prohibited and the prescription of spirituous and vinous liquors should be permitted. Justifying such legislation the committee had reported that the overwhelming evidence was to the effect that malt liquors (not also spirituous and vinous liquors) had no substantial medicinal value. It is now said by the majority at one point that the preponderating opinion of practicing physicians is against the use of all three, and at another point that only a minor fraction hold the other view. I am unable to assent to these generalizations. On the contrary, the impossibility of determining from anything now before the court what is the preponderating opinion upon this subject is very clear."

"The naked question then simply comes to this: Conceding that liquor is to be valuable medicine, has Congress power, under the constitutional provision prohibiting traffic in intoxicating liquors for beverage purposes, to limit their prescription in good faith and consequently their necessary use for medicinal purposes, to a quantity which, under the allegation, taken as true, is inadequate for such purposes? To me the answer seems plain."

"If Congress cannot altogether prohibit the prescription for medicinal use, it cannot limit the prescription to an inadequate quantity, for obviously in that case, to the extent of the inadequacy, the prohibition is as complete and the usurpation of power as clear, as though the prohibition were unqualified."

May Limit Drops as Well.

"If the power exists to limit the quantity to a pint in 10 days, it exists to limit the quantity to a tablespoonful or a teaspoonful or a few drops during the same or any other arbitrary period of time, with the result in substance and effect that the definite limitation of the prohibitory power, by the words 'for beverage purposes,' vanishes altogether."

"The effect of upholding the legislation is to deprive the states of the exclusive power, which the Eighteenth Amendment has not destroyed, of controlling medical practice and practice in part, to Congress. It goes farther, for if Congress can prohibit the prescription of liquor for necessary medical purposes as a means of preventing the furnishing of it for beverage purposes, that body, by a parity of reasoning, may prohibit the manufacture and sale for industrial and sacramental purposes, or, indeed, as the most effective possible means of preventing the traffic in it for beverage purposes, may prohibit the manufacture and sale altogether, with the result that under the pretense of adopting appropriate means, a carefully and definitely limited power will have been expanded into a general and unlimited power."

"I do not doubt the authority of Congress to regulate the disposal of intoxicating liquors for medicinal use so as to prevent evasions of the law against the traffic in such liquors for beverage purposes, and to that end to surround the prescription by the physician with every appropriate safeguard against fraud and imposition, but as this record now stands it cannot prohibit the legitimate prescription of spirituous and vinous liquors, as this statute attempts to do."

NAGEL SAYS FARM INQUIRY WILL BE UNBIASED STUDY
Business Men's Commission Will Be Unhindered by Politics or Industry, Chairman Declares.
A thorough and impartial study of the nation's agricultural problem, free from political or industrial influence, will be made by the Business Men's Commission on Agriculture, with a view of preparing an unbiased report, Charles Nagel of St. Louis, appointed as chairman of the new commission, said today.

"We have no plan to support or oppose, and are neither the proponents nor the foes of any industrial, commercial, political or occupational group," he said. "We shall study the problem independently of the National Industrial Conference Board and the United States Chamber of Commerce, which formed the commission. The method of procedure will rest entirely with the commission, and when the work is done, which may be in a year or so, a report will be prepared for the organizations which selected us."

"Business men are realizing more and more that no industry can thrive while others are languishing. Nations know they cannot get along well while their neighbors suffer severe depression. Merchants and manufacturers know their prosperity will be transient unless the farmer is on his feet."

"I am not a member of either the Conference Board or the Chamber and I understand the other members will be selected without regard to their connections or political opinions. The purpose is to choose broad minded men who will work, and then let them tackle the problem. The commission will confine its activity to study."

The announcement of the creation of the Business Men's Commission was received yesterday with suspicion by farm organization leaders who are advocating immediate farm relief legislation in the next session of Congress.

QUEEN MARIE IN FRANCE, TO SEE CAROL TOMORROW

Deposed Prince Advised Not to Return to Rumania; King Ferdinand Better.
Special to the Post-Dispatch.
CHERBOURG, Nov. 30.—Queen Marie of Rumania landed from the Berengaria this afternoon. She will arrive in Paris late today, is expected to see her son, the deposed Prince Carol, tomorrow, and to leave for Bucharest Friday.

Gen. Angelescu of the Rumanian army, who was here to meet Queen Marie, admitted that he had talked with Prince Carol in Paris and had urged him not to return to Rumania.

"The King's health is not good but his condition is not as serious as reported," said Gen. Angelescu. "Nevertheless, I am going to urge the Queen not to stay long in Paris, but to return quickly to Bucharest. Her presence in Bucharest is not urgently required, but she has been gone a long time and they want her back as soon as possible."

American Consul Wiley had this message for Queen Marie from President Coolidge: "Mrs. Coolidge joins me in thanking your Majesty for your radiogram of Nov. 25 and for your photograph which we are happy to possess as a souvenir of your visit, of which we trust your Majesty may always retain most pleasant memories."

The railroad desires to abandon its present Florence-Hamilton branch, and to replace it with a route on the east side of the Bitter Root River.

"THE GRAY PHANTOM"
The GRAY PHANTOM, here of many near-criminal adventures, is astonished to read, at his retreat on Long Island, that he wanted for the brutal murder of SYLVANUS GAGE, reclusé tobacco dealer. The old man had received a threatening letter signed "Gray Phantom," and had feared that name with his dying breath to OFFICER PINTO, who had discovered the murder. Realizing that he has been framed and that the police will spend all their energies looking for him, the Gray Phantom goes to New York himself to seek out the true culprit. But the real motive behind this bold stroke is to clear his name in the eyes of HELEN HARDWICK.

Visiting the scene of the crime, he is recognized by Officer Pinto and locked in the small murder room, from which he makes a sensational escape by discovering a hidden exit connecting by a tunnel with the laboratory of DR. BIMBLE, eccentric criminal newspaper reporter of his capture, the Phantom accepts Dr. Bimble's hospitality. That night, while investigating the mechanism of the secret tunnel, he sees the hidden door open from the tobacco shop, hears the Gage housekeeper cry "He's killing me," and watches her fall dead just as the door clicks shut. Next morning the newspapers tell of the mistaken arrest of TOMMY GRANGER, reporter of the Sphere, who so closely resembles the Gray Phantom that he has been taken prisoner. With characteristic promptness, the Phantom determines to see this man. Cleverly outwitting the network of police watching for him, he drives to the office of the Sphere, where a stroke of luck lands the intoxicated Tommy Granger in his cab.

Taking refuge with PENG YUEN, an old Chinese whom he had once befriended, the Phantom changes clothes with the reporter, locks him in a stock

Suffer Most
From Gas

It is generally supposed that stout people are never bothered with digestive trouble, but the fact is that they suffer a great deal more stomach distress than thin folks do. Much of their discomfort is caused by excessive gas in the stomach, pressure from which often disturbs the heart action, restricts circulation and interferes with the breathing. That is why so many fleshy people complain of having "heart trouble."

All the evil effects of pent-up gas in the stomach and bowels can be quickly overcome by taking Bismarck's Gas Tablets at meal time. These pleasant, harmless little tablets promote the secretion of gastric juices, invigorate the weak stomach nerves and aid in restoring the entire digestive system to proper working order. Ask for Bismarck's Gas Tablets at Wolff, Wilson Drug Stores, Walgreen Drug Co. or any other good drug store. Price $1.

GRAND JURY INVESTIGATES
LYNCHING IN FLORIDA

Negro, Who Fled When Hysterical Woman Screamed, Was Captured by Mob.

By the Associated Press.
FORT MEYERS, Fla., Nov. 30.—Twelve witnesses remained to be heard today in the grand jury investigation of the death of Henry Patterson, Negro, at Labelle, May 11. The Negro was killed by a mob who believed he had attacked a white woman.

A coroner's inquiry, which resulted in the arrest of nine Labelle men, some of them prominent, brought out that Patterson, a laborer on a road gang, had sought a drink of water from a housewife. The woman became hysterical on his approach and her screams attracted many persons in the neighborhood. Patterson fled.

Meanwhile reports were circulated that he had attacked the woman and searching parties were organized. While authorities sought the Negro he was captured by a group of citizens and hanged to a tree in the outskirts of the town.

Stories of how the Negro was tortured were circulated by residents shortly after the lynching. One was that Patterson was placed in an automobile and driven up and down the main street of Labelle while several of his captors stamped his face and cut his body with knives.

The grand jury investigation of the affair began here yesterday after being transferred from the county where the lynching occurred on grounds that a fair investigation could not be obtained.

FEDERAL COURT AUTHORIZED
IN 1887 TO BE OPENED MONDAY

Chillicothe, Mo., Which Celebrated When Congress Acted, Has Waited 39 Years.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 30.—In February, 1887, Congress authorized the holding of Federal Court in Chillicothe, Mo. The Government has completed arrangements and the first session will be held Monday, 39 years after the authorization. Several gray-haired residents of Chillicothe, who remember how, when they were youths, the town celebrated when it was learned Congress had given it a Federal Court, are expected to attend the opening session.

In March, 1911, Congress amended the act of 1887 to provide that Federal Court must be held in Chillicothe as soon as suitable quarters were provided without cost to the Government. In 1920 a courtroom was provided and the Department of Justice shipped a bench, a witness stand and a few chairs for spectators to Chillicothe. Two weeks ago the Attorney-General wrote Judge Merrell E. Otis of the Western Division of the Western District of Missouri that if court was not held there the department was going to reclaim its furniture, soon. Monday Judge Otis will journey to Chillicothe to open court.

During December the company will pay the entire cost and thereafter the employees may continue the insurance paying a share of the cost by payroll deductions. Each employee is insured for $1,000, payable at death, or in 20 monthly installments of $51.05 if he be permanently disabled before he is 60 years old.

SEES HANGED MAN'S BODY

Worker Returns Day Later and Form Proves to Be Thomas Maloy, 40.

A workman went to the basement room at 1213 North Market street last Friday to inspect it preparatory to running an electric light cable through, and saw what he thought was a dummy hanging from the ceiling. He gave it no attention.

Today he returned to the room and the object was still hanging from the ceiling. He decided to inspect the shape and discovered it was the body of a man. The landlady identified the dead man as Thomas Maloy, 40 years old, who had lived in the room for the last three years. He had never told her anything about himself. The body was fully clothed, even to cap, and eyeglasses were in place on the nose.

Within The Billionarea—Greater St. Louis—there are more than a million people, with an average purchasing power per family  $3\frac{1}{2}$  times as large as that of families in the small town and rural communities outside The Billionarea.

The Billionarea is an easily covered market with a total shoe requirement great enough to make it of major importance to any shoe manufacturer. Here, one newspaper—the Post - Dispatch—is the accepted medium—the super-sales influence in one of the most profitable of America's Big Markets.

For many years the Post-Dispatch has carried far more shoe advertising than all other St. Louis newspapers combined. The record for the first six months of 1926 is as follows:

Shoe Advertising in St. Louis Newspapers:

Post-Dispatch (alone)	121,053 Lines
All Other St. Louis Newspapers	112,624 "

Post-Dispatch EXCESS	8,429 Lines

Results to advertisers are responsible for this marked supremacy and the results are always superior because the Post-Dispatch has far greater circulation in The Billionarea than any other newspaper—morning, evening, daily or Sunday.

SPEAKER FOURTH "MOST VALUABLE" PLAYER-MANAGER TO STEP DOWN

ast of "Big Four" to Pass Had Won a Championship, Was on the Way to Another

Each of the Quartet Has Been Awarded the "Most Valuable Player" Trophy — Combined Lifetime Batting Average of All Was .351.

Complete Major League Records Of Quartet of Great Players

FOLLOWING are the complete major league records of four of the greatest players in American League history, who have since the close of the 1926 season, passed out as managers:

By Herman Wecke.

Four great players—players who have been starred in American League games for from 11 to 22 years—have passed out as managers in the few brief months since the close of the 1926 season. The fourth member of the great quartet, Tris Speaker, fell by the wayside yesterday. He resigned as manager of the Cleveland club to go into business.

Speaker thus joined Ty Cobb, by how far Cobb outdistanced his field. George Sisler and Eddie Collins as star athletes who have passed as leaders of American League clubs. Cobb, like Speaker, resigned, while Sisler and Collins were deposed of by the owners of the St. Louis and Chicago clubs.

Without a doubt, these four athletes compose the greatest quartet to ever play in the major leagues. All were sensations. Cobb was the greatest of all major league stars. Collins and Sisler were two of the greatest tossers who ever stepped from the college diamond to the major league fields. Collins went to the Athletics from Columbia U. while Sisler stepped from Michigan U. to stardom with the Browns. Speaker was the greatest player at the best center fielder in the business.

Combined Average Is .351. The athletes have combined records, which probably will go down with the best ever made in major league baseball. Between them the four have played in 9,549 games and own a combined batting average of .351. It would be hard to pick four players anywhere, playing over the same span of years, to equal this figure.

As a result of the passing of these men, the western half of the American League now is without a real outstanding star as a manager. In addition, it just about leaves "Baby" Ruth as the outstanding performer in the Johnson circuit. Of the quartet, Cobb was the most prominent. He was in the game longer and established more records than either of his three rivals. When Ty Cobb was in his prime winning batting championship became a habit. For a time no one cared who won, but equal this figure.

Tris Speaker's Retirement Not Caused By Failure to Make Good As Team Manager

Speaker has served 20 years in the American League. In that time he has put over a swat average of .347. He gained the honor of being the first player to be named "most valuable" player of the American League. He served as manager of the Cleveland club from July, 1919, when he succeeded Lee Fohl. Unlike Cobb, it cannot be said that he was a failure as a manager. He led the Indians to a pennant and a world's championship in 1920 and brought his club home in second place in the 1926 campaign. "Business" is assigned as the reason for his quitting as a leader of the team. Always a great batter, Speaker was nevertheless just as well known as a fielder.

Speaker Introduces New System. It was Speaker, who as a member of the Boston Red Sox, inaugurated the system of playing a "shallow" center field. In this way he was able to cut off many "Texas Leaguers." He could go back better than his rivals and it was an incident of great moment when he dropped a fly ball. And how he could throw. Probably others have had stronger throwing arms, but none more accurate. As a rival player once said when opposing Speaker: "what's the use trying to score when there's a guy out there in center field pitching strikes over the plate." And that's the way Speaker threw.

Speaker in his career played more than 2500 games and pounded out a total of 3293 hits. Sisler, like Cobb, a sensational player, was nevertheless a failure as a manager. As a first baseman, Sisler took off his hat to no one in the big leagues. But a surprise of men he was outstripped by not a few. He has been with the Browns 11 years. He came as a pitcher from Michigan U. He was a great left-handed, but he also could hit. The Browns at that time needed hitting and a first baseman, so Sisler got the job. In 11 years he has played 1498 games and piled 2094 hits in 6053 times at bat for a grand average of .346.

Collins a "Money Player." Collins, the fourth great player to fall by the wayside as a manager, is outstripped by his three rivals in combined swat averages, but he was nevertheless a great player. His disposal as leader of the White Sox came as a surprise. There were no previous hints. And what Ray Schalk thinks of Collins was indicated when shortly after

Arthur Poe Great Pinch Hitter of Football The Only Touchdown Roper Ever Made

CHAPTER III — "MY 25 YEARS ON THE GRIDIRON"

By W. W. "Bill" Roper.

IPLAYED end rush on the Princeton team for three years. In my sophomore year I was not a regular, but fortunately played in every game of importance. During my college days I had the good luck to play against some great teams.

The most exciting game I ever played in was against Yale, in my sophomore year, at New Haven. Bill Edwards was Captain of the Princeton team and McBride, a great left-footed punter, was the Yale leader. The teams were very evenly matched. We scored first. Rosey Reiter made a long run up to Yale's two-yard line and we pushed it over on the next play. Yale scored but, fortunately for us, missed the try for goal after touchdown.

In the second half Al Sharpe, halfback on the Yale team, kicked the longest goal from the field I have ever seen. He stood on the 53-yard line and the ball had plenty of distance to spare as it sailed over the crossbar. I admit there was a slight wind at Sharpe's back, but at that time it was a wonderful kick. This game made the score 10-6. Yale had a great kicking combination in Sharpe and McBride, a sure drop-kicker and a long punter.

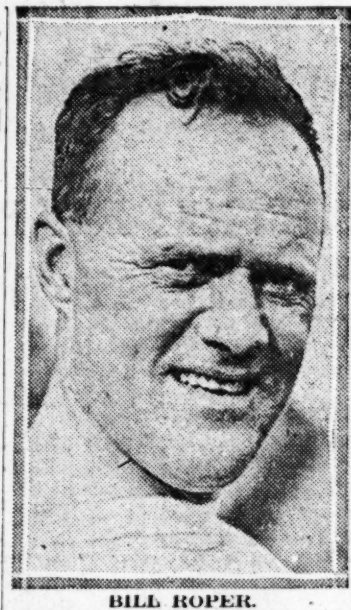

During the second half we gained quite a lot of ground, but were not enough to score. Yale would allow the ball to go into the end zone and get the ball on downs. Then McBride would tantalizingly kick it back into our territory. With less than three minutes before the end of the game Yale got the ball on the 40-yard line. Funk, the Yale quarterback, knew there was only a couple of minutes left to play. He elected to rush the ball instead of kicking it. Fortunately for us, a Yale back fumbled and we got the ball. I have had my only chance to become famous. I fell on the ball after the fumble. I am convinced I had picked it out. I was not. I had made a touchdown. I could go now to the exact spot on the Yale field where that fumble happened.

Poe's Great Kick.

WHEN we got the ball every man on our team realized we had a chance to win the game, though the Yale goal line was 40 yards away. At this point, the Princeton coaches made several substitutions, and others Ed Burke at quarterback and Steve McClave at half. I have never heard a quarterback bark out his signals better than Burke did in those few plays. Nor have I ever seen a back go faster or harder than McClave did when he got the ball. We rushed the ball to Yale's 20-yard line. Here Bill Edwards found out there was less than a minute to play. We knew when we heard the amount of time there was to play, that we did not have a chance of scoring a touchdown at the rate we were going and, unfortunately, there was not a man on the team who could drop or place kick. It looked as if we were beaten.

In the Days of Poe.

IHAVE a very hazy recollection of the next 30 seconds. I remember Arthur Poe, who was playing the other end, whisper something to the quarterback and then get back in the kicker's position. Most of our team did not know what was going on. Poe had never kicked a goal in his life. Somehow the center got the ball back to him and Poe made his kick. It seemed to me as if it took that ball five minutes to get over the goal. It hung in the air after every revolution, but finally dropped over into my hands. The tackle was so big and strong that he did not seem to mind how many took hold. This was the first time the famous Yale push-and-pull play was used. It was finally legitimated out of existence about 1910, but it was certainly deadly when it was going.

The hardest tackling teams I ever played against were the Navy team of '99 and 1900. They certainly rocked you and socked you when they struck.

Roper Made Only Touchdown.

THE hardest game I ever played in was against Columbia on election day in New York in 1900. For some unknown reason our manager arranged this game for the Tuesday following the Cornell game, which was played at Princeton on Saturday. Cornell had a very good team that year and gave us a good beating. Columbia also had a splendid team coached by Foster Sanford. I made the only touchdown I ever made in this game. Columbia had the ball about midfield and late in the second half the ball popped out of the arms of the back who was carrying it. It fell into my hands. I had a clear field for the goal with no Columbia man near me. This touchdown gave us a chance to tie the score, provided we kicked the goal. Columbia had also made a touchdown and kicked the goal.

It was my job to hold the ball for the kick after touchdown and I will never forget my disgust at myself when the referee signaled that I had fouled the ball to the ground before the man who was to kick it was ready. Of course, the Columbia players ran out and fell on the ball. We lost our chance to tie the game. I can only account for my lapse by the fact that I was out of breath after the run and did not take time to get back my wind before I held the ball. The goal after touchdown was not played like the try for point is now. The defending team then had to stand on or behind the goal line until the ball was touched down.

Princeton Athletic Director Says Old Eli of 1900 Was the Greatest Football Team He Ever Played Against.

Brown's Yale Team Best of All

THE greatest team I ever played against was Gordon Brown's Yale team of 1900. I do not know whether Yale men consider this their best team or not but it certainly was the strongest Yale eleven I have ever seen, with the possible exception of the Yale team of '23. Gordon Brown's team had a terrific attack and the fullback played to use the famous tackle back play. This attack made Yale unbeatable, with one or two exceptions, for the next few years.

The Yale tackle on offense would be pulled out of the line and placed about three yards behind the line of scrimmage. The fullback played behind the tackle with one half back on either side. The end, on what is called the short side, came in next to the guard and took the tackle's place. The quarterback could give the ball to the tackle or any back. When the tackle got the ball the three backs would get behind him and push. All the tackle was expected to do was to keep his feet. When he hit the line most of the other members of the Yale team would grab hold of him. The tackle was so big and strong that he did not seem to mind how many took hold. This was the first time the famous Yale push-and-pull play was used. It was finally legitimated out of existence about 1910, but it was certainly deadly when it was going.

McGraw Has Six Hurlers to Form Nucleus of Staff

Barnes, Greenfield, Fitzsimmons and McQuillan Big Four of New York Mound Corps.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post Dispatch. NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—The New York Giants broke the ice of the winter season yesterday when John J. McGraw announced the names of the pitchers, old and young, on whom he will depend to carry his club in the 1927 season. The action was a surprise. Usually the managers do not begin constructing their pitching staffs so early but McGraw was always a chatterer of precedent. He said he had not fully decided on Saracino as a training camp but that the team "probably" would go back to the Florida west coast town.

There won't be many changes among the old timers for the 1927 staff. The name of Chick Davies is absent but a name is added of a man who can left hand "em slightly—Jack Bentley, who was traded to the Phillies last year with Hugh Bennett for Jimmy Ring. McGraw grabbed him by the waiver route when Brother Baker of the Phillies decided that Stuffy McInnis could do all the first basing the Phillies needed next season.

Pretty Fair Staff. Then there are the real regulars, Virgil Barnes, Kent Greenfield, Fred Fitzsimmons and Hugh McQuillan. Jack Scott is on the list. He did a lot of work last year, mainly as a relief man. And Jimmy Ring is to get another chance after a disappointing season. The youngsters are almost all newcomers. Only two are in the squad which went to Saratoga last spring. They were Bill Clarkson and Pay Thomas, and the former, after a year at Toledo, and the latter, winning 15 and losing only one game for New Haven in the Eastern League, will be expected to "show something" for their training.

McGraw also announced that he would soon endeavor to clear up his list of "voluntarily retired" players by giving releases to Fred Anderson, once a first string pitcher; Art "Tilly" Shafer, a wonderful infielder in his day; Charlie Tesreau, the "bear catcher," a great pitcher and now a coach at Dartmouth; Tom Workman, former football star, and L. J. Tilley, college pitcher.

ANOTHER PLAYER AT WESTMINSTER COLLEGE IS RULED INELIGIBLE

By the Associated Press.
FULTON, Mo., Nov. 30.—Henry Iba, star end on the Westminster College football team, champion of the Missouri College Athletic Union, was yesterday declared ineligible on scholarship grounds by Prof. F. A. Culmer of Central College, commissioner of eligibility for the union.

Iba is the second man of the championship team to be declared ineligible by Culmer within a week. Russell R. White, star halfback, was ruled out last Friday on similar grounds. If his rulings are sustained by the union at its annual meeting in Kansas City Dec. 11, the title claims of Westminster probably will be barred also.

The ruling against Iba was based upon the fact that Iba's grades were not at the standard of the class of the last semester and under the by-law of the union that to be eligible for intercollegiate competition, a player must have at least 12 hours of passing grades.

Faculty members admit that Iba's grades were not of record at the end of the spring semester, but point to the fact that he had successfully passed all examinations when he entered school this fall.

Cleveland Seeks Leader to Fill Speaker's Shoes

Jack McCallister, Tris' Assistant and Eddie Collins Mentioned for Job.

By the Associated Press.
CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 30.—Now that Tris Speaker has resigned as manager of the Cleveland Indians and is through with baseball for good, Cleveland baseball fans are casting about for a successor.

It is agreed that the task of filling the place of one of the most colorful players and managers the game has known will not be easy. Speaker converted Cleveland from a dead baseball town in 1916 to a hotbed of fandom in 1916 and has been instrumental in keeping it on the baseball map since.

He led the Indians to Cleveland's only pennant and world championship in 1920. Speaker, the dangerous hitter, sensational outfielder and fighting manager, has been Cleveland's greatest drawing card since Napoleon Lajoie sang his swan song.

Eddie Collins Mentioned. Jack McCallister, who has been with the Indians for 12 years as scout, coach and assistant manager, is regarded as a likely successor to Speaker. Eddie Collins, who recently was released as pilot of the White Sox, has also been mentioned. But club officials have refused to comment on either of these prospects.

Speaker's post will not be filled for a month or six weeks, E. S. Barnard, president of the club, says. "It will take considerable thought and will be no easy task," he added. "And I simply will not discuss tentative candidates at this moment."

"When I have reached a decision, and that is going to take time, I will make the announcement." Club Sale Probable. H. G. Tremmel, president of the American Fiber Products Co., is in the formation of one of several syndicates seeking Cleveland ownership for the Indians.

"Our plans have not been completed," he said. "One reason is that other syndicates are working along the same line."

Speaker said he was through with baseball, he meant not only as player and manager but also as a possible magnate.

"No," he said when asked if he might join one of the syndicates being formed that hope to buy the club. "I am taking a vacation from baseball that I expect will last the remainder of my life."

PENN STARS WHO PLAY AS PROS ARE LIKELY TO LOSE THEIR LETTER

By the Associated Press.
PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 30.—Charles Rogers, master magician of this year's University of Pennsylvania football eleven, will lead a team drawn chiefly from Pennsylvania players into the professional field against the New York Yankees next Sunday, providing his plans materialize.

Rogers said he could see no sign of failure and his manager, Elwood Riechy, was equally optimistic. Riechy asserted that he already had the signed contracts of some and would have at least 13 signatures within a day or so.

Eleven of those he named were Pennsylvania players this year. There has been talk on the campus that Rogers and any others who join him in his professional enterprise may be denied their varsity letters, but university officials have withheld comment.

READON, Bowley, New Le Browns, Will Trade "Fe"

ident of World Champions to Joint Major League Meetings to Help O'Farrell O

By J. Roy St.
Sam Readon, president of the St. Louis last night after a within a few days the work of pennant campaign will be begun.

Readon had a chance to look over the situation this morning. "I haven't thought about baseball and not done a thing toward preparing for next season. It will be a few days before I am prepared to tackle the questions which arise since the world's champion."

Readon was asked if anything had been done toward acquiring a new manager to help Bob O'Farrell during the 1927 campaign. Readon had not given a thought to the matter. "I haven't thought about it," he said. "I will be one of the principal members before the Cardinals. Bob O'Farrell went through the 1926 season without any injury, and it is unusual in the case of a player, who is constantly in danger from foul tips, sliding bases and other hazards."

Here Cards Were Lucky. Readon heaved a sigh of relief when the season ended and the series was won with O'Farrell intact, but he made a vow that he would do everything in his power to obtain the services of O'Farrell for the 1927 season. "It will be one of the principal problems of the club," he said. "I hope to have him back in the club by the time the season opens."

Readon said he would not attend the minor league convention held at St. Louis last night, but that he would go to New York or the National League meeting and to Chicago for the joint major league meeting, Dec. 16. The Cardinals' season was a success. Readon said he did not know if Horneby would represent the club at the meeting, as he had been in touch with the manager since the close of the world's championship.

Horneby said last night that he did not have any plans to attend the meeting, but that he felt the players of the world should be in St. Louis.

BREADON, HOME FROM FLORIDA, PREPARES TO TACKLE CARDS' PROBLEMS

Howley, New Leader of Browns, Will Send Out Trade "Feelers" Today

President of World Champions to Attend National League and Joint Major League Meetings—Acquisition of Catcher to Help O'Farrell One of Tasks.

By J. Roy Stockton.

Sam Breadon, president of the world champion Cardinals, returned to St. Louis last night after a six weeks' vacation in Florida and within a few days the work of preparing the champions for the next pennant campaign will be begun.

"I haven't had a chance to look at my accumulated mail," said Breadon this morning. "I haven't even thought about baseball and have not done a thing toward preparing for next season. It will take a few days before I am prepared to tackle the questions which have arisen since the world's series."

Breadon was asked if anything had been done toward acquiring a catcher to help Bob O'Farrell during the 1927 campaign. Breadon said he had not given it a thought, but that it will be one of the principal problems before the Cardinals. Bob O'Farrell went through the 1926 season without any injury, and that is unusual in the case of a catcher, who is constantly in danger from foul tips, sliding base runners and other hazards.

Where Cards Were Lucky.

Hornby heaved a sigh of relief when the season ended and the world series was won with O'Farrell still intact, but he made a vow then that he would do everything in his power to obtain the services of an assistant for O'Farrell, as the entire championship structure of the club could have been upset by an injury to the backstop.

Breadon said he would not attend the minor league convention at Asheville next week, but that he would go to New York or the National League meeting and to Chicago for the joint major league meeting, Dec. 16. The Cardinals manager said he did not know whether Hornby would represent the club at the meetings, as he has not been in touch with the manager since the close of the world series.

Hornby said last night that he did not make any plans to attend the meetings, but that he felt the champions of the world should be represented at all meetings, but had not heard from Breadon on the subject.

Meet the New Manager

DANIEL PHILIP HOWLEY

WRAY'S COLUMN

Hot Stove Is Ablaze.

THE Old Hot Stove, was red in the face, today, following the re-fueling that followed the arrival here yesterday of Dan Howley, new manager of the Browns, and Sam Breadon, president of the Cardinals.

Nothing but smoke is likely to develop for the next two or three days—smoke and conversation.

Howley has the big job—that of reconstructing a broken machine. But the owner of the Browns, besides straightening out the kinks in his official family, has a team weakness that needs his immediate attention.

That is the finding of a catcher capable of relieving O'Farrell. When Bob went through last year's critical campaign, doing practically all of the work, it seemed little short of a miracle. The chances are strongly against his chance of repeating the really great feat.

But thus far nothing has been done to protect the club's pennant prospects by acquiring a major league caliber alternate.

Whoever procures the Cardinals' material should get to work on this problem at once. According to Manager Hornby, no step has been taken by the club in this direction, and the time is growing late. Presently, trading material will not be available.

Then the old machine will go to the big race without an extra tire in case the catching department develops a flat.

After 20 Years.

STEPHEN WAGNER, forceful head of the Board of Education, is finally going to put across a suggestion that was advanced in this column ten years ago and has annually been put forward since then.

The suggestion was that the school board abandon the precedent of long ago which prohibits the St. Louis High Schools from opposing teams distant more than 25 miles from St. Louis.

This rule has throttled high school amateur activity for a score of years, kept our teams in the city of the publicity that might have attended a liberal interchange of contests with cities and teams of the state and the country in general.

The writer understands that, following the suggestion of an editorial in this column two weeks ago and another of more recent date, President Wagner of the Board of Education discussed the matter with educators in other sections of the country and then decided to lift the embargo.

The change already has been determined upon, and will become an official fact within a few weeks.

At last the "Chinese Wall" will have been leveled.

Power of Life and Death.

IN a game between Alabama and Georgia, one of the Georgia linemen was so badly hurt that he had to crawl back to his

McCarroll Named 1927 Captain of Washington Team

Left End Elected Unanimously to Succeed Mahan—19 Letters Awarded.

John McCarroll, left end, was elected captain of the 1927 Washington U. football eleven by the unanimous vote of his teammates at the annual "W" dinner in Francis Gymnasium last night. More than 400 students and alumni were present.

McCarroll, who succeeds Robert Mahan, is a slim youth of 165 pounds. He came to Washington with a reputation as a basketball player and a manifest lack of skill at football. One season of freshman football experience under Coach Johnny Davis, won him a regular berth his sophomore year.

Last year, McCarroll distinguished himself as a catcher of forward passes as well as accurate tackling. He was the only line veteran conceded a regular position when the 1926 season opened. He did not miss a quarter of any game.

Dr. V. S. Putney, superintendent of St. Luke's Hospital, addressed those present. The coaches and a number of alumni also making short speeches.

Letters were awarded to 19 members of the football squad; six in basketball; seven track; nine swimming; six tennis; one baseball; to the manager, and one intramural. Eighteen freshmen were awarded class numerals.

however, and 10 rounds make rather a short distance. Mickey Walker, likewise, appears from his record to be a rather over-rated scrapper.

Hence, if all is open and above board, the chances are that Mickey will not grab the title, next Friday night.

Mickey, however, as middle-weight champion might be desirable. He would do the game a lot more good than Flowers, because of race prejudice against the dusky boxer.

But Walker only recently graduated from the welterweight, will be facing a veteran middle-weight, and the handicap seems too great for him to overcome.

A New Star Dawning?

FROM time to time one hears the name of Joey Sangor of Milwaukee mentioned. Dispatches carry stories of the fine fights he figures in. Last night he defeated Buddy Taylor, considered the strongest candidate for the bantamweight title now in the field.

That puts Sangor on the map. Henceforth he will be watched with real interest, as he undoubtedly has the makings of a coming champion.

Not So Good.

MICKEY WALKER is favored to beat Tiger Flowers, Friday, for the reason that Flowers, at the age of 33, must take off six pounds within three days to be at the weight limit. A forfeit of $7500 makes it certain that Flowers will even go to the sweat bath, if necessary to get into condition.

Flowers has taken off only two pounds in seven days' hard work and the fact that his stubborn flesh comes off so reluctantly has made his supporters doubtful.

THE minute you light up the new Mapacuba, you'll see what a tremendous difference it makes when you smoke a cigar made of ripe tobacco!

It has a fuller, richer aroma! It tastes better! And it's milder and mellower than you ever thought a cigar could be!

The reason is simply because Mapacuba is made only of carefully selected, perfectly ripened leaves from the middle of the plant.

We discard the top leaves because they are under-ripe and give a cigar a bitter, raspy taste. We discard the bottom leaves because they are over-ripe, don't cure properly and give a cigar a flat, colorless taste.

Try a Mapacuba soon and see for yourself. You'll realize then that you never knew how good a cigar could be until you started smoking ripe tobacco!

BUSINESS FELL OFF IN LAST 30 DAYS

Federal Reserve Bank Reports
"Irregularity" in Trade in Eighth District.

Business in the Eighth Federal Reserve district in the last 30 days "developed considerable irregularity, with reports covering a majority of lines indicating reduced activity," says the monthly review of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis.

"The general demand for merchandise continues good," the report adds, "and distribution as indicated by car loadings and sales statistics is still on a large scale, but purchasing by merchants and the public is conducted on an extremely conservative basis, and almost exclusively for immediate requirements."

"In virtually all lines investigated, October sales fell below those of the corresponding period last year. It will be recalled, however, that weather at this time a year ago was unusually auspicious for the movement of all varieties of seasonal goods and that trade was exceptionally active, so that the comparison is less significant than would be the case had existing conditions been more nearly alike."

"Industry during the period under review made a relatively favorable showing. While operations in several important industries were curtailed, production in others was well sustained. Activities in the iron and steel industry continued at an unusually high rate for this time of year, and at a number of important plants unfilled orders are sufficiently large to assure maintenance of production schedules through the remainder of 1926."

"The employment situation continued generally satisfactory, with no marked changes. Reductions in working forces were reported by certain industries, but these were mainly seasonal in character. In the building trades both skilled artisans and common labor are well employed, and further expansion in activities at Southern textile mills was reported."

DETECTIVE WHO GAVE ALIBI IN MURDER TRIAL IS MOVED

Bourland, Who Aided Alphonse Palazzolo, Assigned to Uniform Duty Away From Bureau.

City Detective "Tex" Bourland, a crack shot of the Detective Bureau, was transferred today to uniform duty as a patrolman in the Wyoming Street District. Neither he nor Chief of Detectives Kaiser would discuss the transfer, but it is understood the reason lies in Bourland's testimony recently in a deposition in the case of Alphonse Palazzolo, murder case defendant.
Last week Palazzolo was admitted to $25,000 bail by the Supreme Court on the strength of an alibi supported by Detective Bourland's deposition to the effect that he saw Palazzolo at Seventh and Biddle streets on Oct. 15 at about the time two linen peddlers were shot by gunmen in University City.

TOBACCO SALESMAN SHOTS SELF TO DEATH IN HOME

Ferdinand Hoffman Had Been Worrying Over Deaths of Six Sons and Illness of Wife.

Worry over the deaths of six sons and the detention of his wife in City Sanitarium caused Ferdinand Hoffman, 49 years old, a tobacco salesman, to kill himself yesterday in the basement of his home, 4743 Greer avenue. He was found lying on the basement floor with a bullet wound in the head at 5:30 p. m.
by a neighbor. A revolver was found nearby.

The only surviving child, a son, is an invalid, having been injured in the World War. Mrs. Hoffman's condition is said to have been caused by worry over the deaths of her sons.

ORDERS COUNTY GRAND JURY TO INVESTIGATE GAMBLING

Judge Wurdeman Mentions Sharpshooters' Park and Tony Foley's in His Charge.

Circuit Judge Wurdeman of St.
Louis County convened today the annual county grand jury today, ordered investigation by it of gambling at the establishment of Tony Foley, exconvict, at 6128A Easton avenue, Wellston, and at Sharpshooters' Park, Forest Breeze, on the Lemay Ferry road.

"As I have often indicated," the Judge told the grand jurors, "the most effective remedies for suppression of this crime (gambling) are frequent, unannounced raids, the arrest of all parties found in the establishment, and the destruction of all paraphernalia found there."

"It is unlawful knowingly to lease or let to another any house or building used for gambling purposes. If you find the gambling houses are in operation, it would be well to look into the matter of their letting."

For Roosevelt Memorial Stadium.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Erection in Washington of a stadium as a memorial to Theodore Roosevelt is proposed in a bill being drafted by Representative Fish, Republican, New York. Other memorials have been suggested, but in the opinion of Fish, none would be more appropriate to the character and sportsmanship of the former president than an athletic stadium.

Would Tighten Farm Loan Act.
By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Nov. 30.—Secretary Mellon will ask Congress to tighten up the administration of the Federal farm loan act by provision for greater Federal supervision over the joint stock land banks and other agencies of the act. The Government has been disturbed over the administration of some of the banks and the Department of Justice is conducting an investigation.

Profits From Good Loans

Every dollar saved becomes a possible profit maker—for someone may be willing to pay from 3c up per year for its use.

Persons who can make money earn more money often borrow to increase their service and profits, and they advertise in the Post-Dispatch Classified Financial Columns for money wanted.

Then, too, private lenders are often sought through the Want Ads, because, from the extra capital being profitable may come for the man with money to lend.

The Post-Dispatch Classified Columns have an interest for persons who need money or those who have money to lend.

PREHISTORIC EGG PETRIFIED
California Geological Professor Thinks It Is of Gigantic Lizard.
By the Associated Press.
FRESNO, Cal., Nov. 30.—Found two years ago in an alfalfa field by K. C. West, a rancher, used as a plaything by the children and finally broken open with a hammer, a petrified egg about four inches long and half as thick, is in the hands of Dr. T. T. Waterman, professor of geology of Fresno State College, for identification.

Dr. Waterman expressed the belief that it was the egg of a gigantic prehistoric lizard and that, if such proved to be the case, it would be of inestimable value to science. The shell and yolk are perfectly preserved and distinctly marked.

WANTS TO BE DRY CHIEF, BUT ONLY ON HIS OWN TERMS

Sam A. Clark of Carrollton, Mo., Makes Application and States His Conditions.
A list of "terms and conditions" under which he would accept appointment as prohibition administrator for the Missouri-Kansas district, are contained in an application for that post by Sam A. Clark of Carrollton, Mo., submitted to Lincoln C. Andrews, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, in charge of Federal prohibition enforcement.

Clark stipulates that neither he nor his agents be required to drink any intoxicating beverages, to violate the law in any way in order to enforce it, to inveigle others into violating the prohibition laws, or to do anything to deprive them of their "own self-respect or the respect of others."
If appointed, Clark announces, he will "enforce the law impartially, without fear or favor." He is managing editor of the Carrollton Republican-Record and ran for Congress on the Republican ticket in the last election.

TOTAL OF $43,751 SPENT IN POLICE PENSION CAMPAIGN

A report showing expenditures of $43,751.93 between Aug. 1 and Nov. 29 in the interest of Proposition No. 2, a measure permitting Missouri cities to enact legislation providing for police pensions, which was adopted by a large majority at the general election Nov. 2, was filed today with the Recorder of Deeds by Lewis M. Rumsey Jr., treasurer of the Police Pension Committee.

Receipts during the same period total $16,379.65 but the report sets forth that the deficit of $27,372.28 was paid with money received prior to Aug. 1. The largest item of expenditure was $23,611.11 for advertising and publicity.

SPEECHLESS WITNESS GIVES TESTIMONY IN $100,000 SUIT

Hans Heinrich, Suing Ford Motor Co., Writes Answers to Questions of Attorneys.

Hans Heinrich, speechless because of the removal of his larynx, testified for three hours yesterday in Federal Judge Davis' Court, writing answers to all questions put to him by attorneys in the case. The answers were handed to the Court Clerk who read them to the jury.
He is suing the Ford Motor Co. of Detroit for $100,000 damages for injury, alleged to have been suffered by him while employed as a mechanic in the Ford assembly plant here in April, 1925. He testified that, in the course of his work, he inhaled quantities of carbon monoxide, which caused irritation and eventually a cancerous growth in his larynx, necessitating an operation in which the larynx was removed and a silver tube inserted.

GYPSIES AND $14 GONE

Mrs. Lillian Allen Reports Loss When Having Fortune Told.

Mrs. Lillian Allen of 803 Madison street paid $14.45 yesterday afternoon to see an impromptu sleight-of-hand performance by two gypsy women who knocked at her door and asked to tell her fortune. One took a plate and burned paper in it with incantations. Then she asked to hold money for good luck, and Mrs. Allen brought out the $14.45. The gypsy asked for a glass of water, placed a handkerchief over it, made a few passes and whisked it away, leaving a white substance in the glass. Now, she said, she needed a red cloth. Mrs. Allen brought one. Not red enough. The gypsies left to get a redder one down the street, still holding the money. They did not come back.

Special Train for British Prince

By the Associated Press.
VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 30.—A special train bearing Prince George, fourth son of King George, was rushing eastward today, attempting to overtake the regular Canadian Pacific train which the Prince failed to "make" because of the delay in the arrival of the liner Empress of Russia, on which he returned from China. ### U. S. Auctions Alcohol Cache Car

By the Associated Press.
NEW YORK, Nov. 30.—Abe Glasser today went to an auction conducted by Federal authorities of automobiles confiscated for transporting liquor. He bought a car for $450, rolling it across the street to examine it. He found a secret compartment filled with 146 gallons of grain alcohol, valued at about $1200. "It's a gift," he shouted. "It's a Santa Claus from Uncle Sam." A crowd gathered, including a Federal agent who had the alcohol carried away.

He's Afraid of Girls

By Lucy Lowell.

THEY thought he was awfully funny, at first. Then some of them began to feel sorry for him.

He's a fine figure of a fellow, twenty-three or so, well-favored, ambitious and thoroughly likeable—when he's with the boys.

But he is afraid of girls.

Let a woman come into the room and he'll blush like—well, like a girl out of a Dickens story. His hands will be all tangled up with each other and he'll hang his head and look as if he actually were ashamed to be alive.

If he sees one of the gang raphers down the corridor pop into a door and wait till she's gone before venturing forth.

If you think he's forced to take such elaborate precautions to protect himself from the onslaught of a lot of desiring females, you're mistaken.

The young women who work in the office keep pretty busy with their desks. They are not hunting. Besides, they'd probably never have noticed him excepting for his curious behavior.

"I nodded to him on the street and he cut me dead," said one of them with anger. "Does he think we're all ready to steal him if we show common courtesy—or what?"

"What does he think anyway?"

Even "the boys" ask this. Then they found out about the strings. Apron strings. One and tied fast to him. The other tied to mother.

Oh, she's done her "duty" by that boy—has mother! Can't you imagine her training him up to believe the world a wicked place and full of pitfalls for a young fellow, no matter how decent-minded he may be?

Pitfalls dug by feminine hands. Mostly. Any feminine hands. Watch out for 'em—those women. All of 'em!

It's the old bogie-man system you see. Scaring kids of the day.

Only this woman made her boy afraid of the future. For no man can live in this world without the feminine influence. Is that like to be bad?

Just about as likely as the bogie-man is to be real!

That mother thinks she is wise. I think she was jealous. Jealous of the woman who sometimes might mean more to her son than herself.

MEDITATIONS —OF A— MARRIED WOMAN

By HELEN ROWLAND

SMALL PEOPLE AND GREAT PEOPLE.

THE world is divided into two kinds of people—the great and the small.

There don't seem to be any "perfect thirty-sixes" or medium mentally or spiritually, amongst human beings.

But you can't tell the great from the small by the size of their automobiles, or their places in Who's Who and the Social Register—even by the way they handle their salad forks.

Small people are ruled by their hatreds and distastes—great people are ruled by their loves and admirations.

Small people are governed by their prejudices—great people are by their enthusiasms.

Small people feel, somehow, "bigger" when they can find something to criticize or to sneer at. Nothing gives them such secret triumph as to fill you with an inferiority complex.

Great people feel "bigger" when they can find something to praise. Nothing gives them such secret delight as to boost your courage and fill you with self-confidence.

Small people shudder at the thought of being "odd" or different. Great people shudder at the thought of being imitators.

Small people envy every successful man his luck or his money. Great people envy no man anything—except the ability, the wings or the genius that BROUGHT him his "luck" or his money.

Small people nurse their grudges as tenderly as they would a finger. Great people would sooner go about with blisters on the hands and a tack in the shoe, than with a grudge like a canker-sore on the heart.

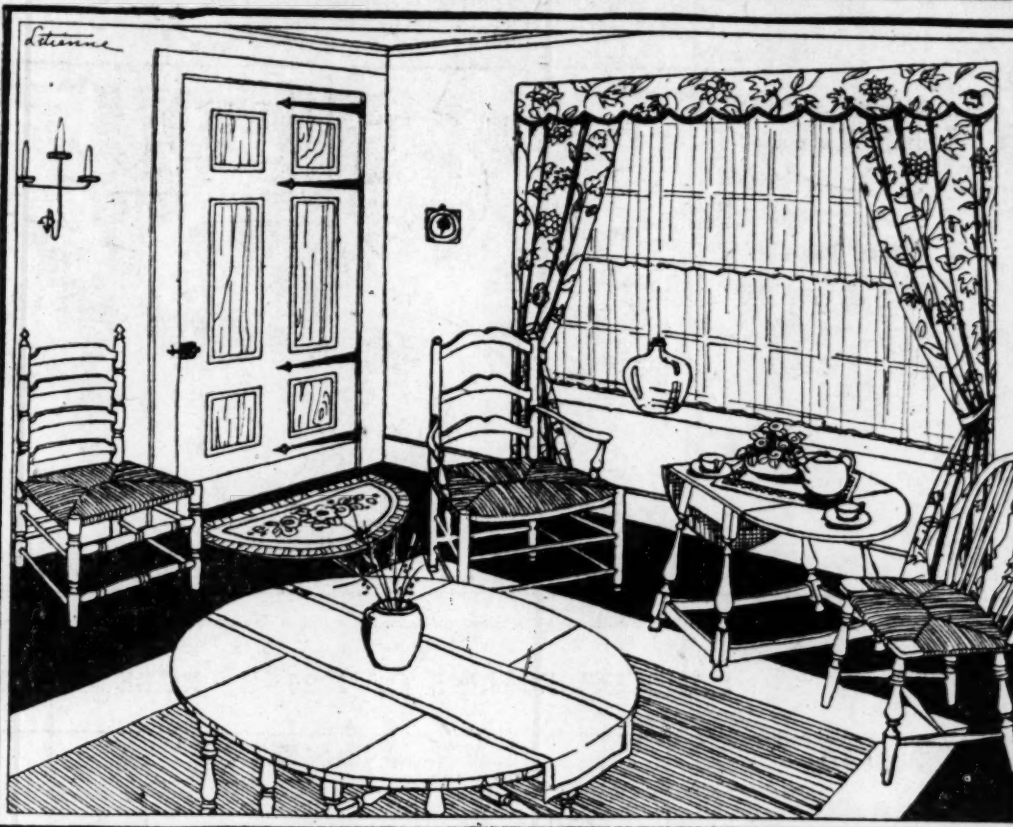

Small people follow the CROWD. Great people follow their own minds—and the crowd follows THEM!

Living among small people is like walking through a field of mines and prickly bushes, which sting, but cannot injure you.

Living among great people is like walking through a forest of beautiful trees, which shield you, inspire you, and impel you to look UPWARD—towards the stars!

Making the Home Attractive

In the dining room sketched the major interest centers around the window arrangement. The long series of windows, which run along nearly the entire side of the room, are converted into an engaging background for a coffee cove.

The windows are framed in a pleasing hand blocked linen which serves both for the valance and the drapes. The linen has a natural colored background with vivid pattern and is bound with black tape. The glass curtains, which cling closely to the window pane, are of a fine delicate scrim in a soft yellow which catches the light and throws it directly on the grouping.

The furniture for the coffee corner, or it may be for tea, consists of a small, drop leaf table which is, perhaps, most attractive in a gay cheerful lacquer finish. It needs only two or three chairs to complete it and these can be part of the dining room suite. The coffee service popular just now is the peasant type of a heavy ware in vivid coloring.

The particular room shown is carried out in simple Colonial combined with Normandy peasant furniture. The principal pieces of furniture are made with the incidental and decorative pieces in lacquer. The chairs have rush bottom seats and are built along sturdy lines.

For the floor hooked rugs are used and the walls and ceiling are finished in a sea green enamel which blends nicely with the cream woodwork and wrought iron fixtures.

HOW SHALL I DO IT?

By Gladys Huntington Bevans

The Forest at Your Window.

HAVE you ever awakened on a cold snowy morning in the early winter, right in the heart of the city, in a very modern apartment, gone to your window and looked out on evergreens laden with gleaming snow? Or, snowless, doesn't it rest and refresh your eyes to see the rich living green of spruce or box when the city seems unutterably bleak?

If these things appeal to you, begin to lay your plans toward accomplishing them now, so that as the heart-warming holidays come around, you have them ready to add to the richness of those festive days. And, of course, what I mean is have window boxes filled with any one of the small evergreens grown especially for this purpose.

There are all kinds of window boxes made of all sorts of materials to be bought ready made. It is also quite a simple matter to have a carpenter make them to fit your windows. Be sure to have them made deep enough so that there is enough earth to nourish not only these but the flowers that you may want to put in when spring comes again. As to color, one sees everything—white, cream, black and both bright and dark green, but of them all I personally think nothing looks better with evergreens than a deep rich forest green window box.

If you are extremely in need of economy this fall and have access to any woodland, get permission from the owner and make a day of it in the country. Cut down some of the tiny seedling cedars where the grove needs thinning. It isn't always possible to get the deep roots that even box cedars have, but even so, merely cutting them off they will last for months.

Bells and Black Velvet.

LONDON—Every Eton-cropped debutante and sub-deb is insisting upon having at least one black velvet frock for evening wear in her wardrobe. The new black velvet dinner dress ruffles for effect upon cut and line and rarely shows any trimming. In this respect the W-shape neck is a great help, creating unusual effect about the corsage and removing the suggestion of hardness.

Secrets of Health and Success

By CHARLES A. L. REED, M.D.
Former President of the American Medical Association.

BENZOL is the commercial name for benzene. It is a clear, colorless, slightly oily liquid that boils at a low temperature (80.2°C), and is therefore volatile.

It is derived chiefly from coking plant gases and occurs in various degrees of purity.

It is extensively used in the manufacture of aniline, for the so-called "dry-cleaning" of clothing, the production of photographic materials, chemicals and various medicinal products. It is often blended with gasoline to make a highly combustible motor material. It is used to make lacquer, rubber, artificial leather, rubber cement, paints and stains and many incidental products.

Benzol in certain quantities, varying according to the susceptibility of the individual, is poisonous to the human system.

In acute benzol poisoning, induced by inhaling or swallowing the liquid accidentally or with suicidal intent, the patient becomes "sick," marked prostration, drowsiness, pallor, tending to blueness, feeble pulse, slow and labored breathing generally culminating in death.

In chronic benzol poisoning, due either to acute poisoning or to prolonged exposure either to benzol fumes or to liquid benzol, the symptoms develop gradually. There is gradually increasing weakness with dizziness and paleness with little bluish pin point eruptions on various parts of the body with tendency to bleed from the nose, gums and throat. The vision becomes blurred from congestions in the bottom of the eye ball. These conditions may develop grave symptoms involving the various organs of the body. Autopsy shows that the blood has broken down in many important particulars involving both the red and white blood corpuscles and the coloring matter.

Benzol poisoning occurs more frequently in cold than in warm weather and in closed rather than in open or well ventilated shops or workrooms.

Young girls and pregnant women are especially liable, the former to menstrual excesses, the latter to miscarriages.

Care of the Hair

By Lucrezia Bori

LUXURANT hair is even more desirable today than in times gone by. With bobbed hair, it is impossible to cover up natural deficiencies by the skillful use of false hair. Unhealthy hair can never be beautiful because of its faded appearance, while beautiful hair, which is really healthy hair, scintillates with life and brightness. Brushing is essential if one is to have beautiful hair. At least five minutes each day should be devoted to this. The brush should have stiff bristles, but care should be taken not to "jab" the scalp, as it is very sensitive. Place the brush against the scalp gently and firmly, pull it through the hair to the ends. When the brushing is finished, massage the scalp for a few minutes with the finger tips.

If the hair is thin and inclined to oiliness the following treatment will remedy the oily condition, and will stimulate the growth.

Heat equal parts of olive oil and mango cure to a tepid warmth. Part the hair, dip a small bit of cotton in the solution and pat on the scalp along the part. Make a new part half an inch to one side of the first one and repeat. Do this until the entire scalp has been covered. Allow the preparation to remain on for one hour, then shampoo the hair carefully, using warm, not hot, water and liquid soap. Hot water cooks the oil into the hairs, which are porous, and so should never be used.

Repeat this twice each week for several weeks and you will be delighted with the improved condition of your hair.

If the hair tends to dryness follow the same treatment, including the brushing and massage, but use olive oil only, and shampoo the hair only once each week.

A meat grinder or food chopper should be cleaned by running a piece of stale bread through it to collect the residue of fats and meats.

Liquid Sauce.

MELT 1 tablespoonful of butter in a saucepan. Add 1 tablespoonful of flour and mix well. Then add 1 cup of hot water stirring constantly so it will not lump, and about 1/4 teaspoonful of salt. Let it boil well, stirring constantly. Add 1 cup of sugar and stir until it dissolves. Then add 1 teaspoonful of vanilla flavoring.

Children's Bedtime Story

By THORNTON W. BURGESS.

Mr. Grouse Tells the News

No matter how old the facts may be, if still unknown they're news, you see.

—Mother West-Wind.

MR. GROUSE was very nervous. He was having a wonderful breakfast of a handful of wheat that Farmer Brown's boy had dropped just outside where Mrs. Grouse was living. He wasn't enjoying that breakfast as he would have enjoyed a good breakfast in the Green Forest. When he picked up a grain of wheat he looked all about him anxiously. He was so nervous that he made Mrs. Grouse nervous.

"What's the matter with you?" demanded.

"Nothing," replied Mr. Grouse, looking up as high as he could looking all about.

"You act to me as if you were afraid," said Mrs. Grouse tartly. "You needn't be. Nothing is going to hurt you over here. Now tell me the news of the Green Forest."

"There isn't any news," replied Mr. Grouse, picking up a grain of buckwheat.

"Anything I don't know is news," insisted Mrs. Grouse. "And I don't know a thing about what is going on over in the Green Forest since I left. Has that hunter with the terrible gun been back?"

Mr. Grouse nodded. "Once," he said. "He came back the day after you were shot, but Farmer Brown's boy chased him away and he hasn't been back since. But one never knows when a hunter may appear. There are some dreadful things happening."

"Tell me about them," commanded Mrs. Grouse.

"Well," said Mr. Grouse, "I suppose you know that Mr. and Mrs. Langbill the Woodcock have lost three of their children."

"What?" cried Mrs. Grouse. "What happened to them?"

"Hunters," replied Mr. Grouse. "Do you need to ask?" Then I ran across one of Bob White's children hiding in the edge of the Green Forest. He had only one eye, and you know that is pretty queer on a bird that lives on the ground as much as the Bob Whites do."

Mrs. Grouse sighed. "I suppose that was due to the hunters, too," she said.

"Of course," replied Mr. Grouse. "That leg was shot off. He gets after a fashion, but it's pretty hard work. That is the worst of these terrible guns. If they always killed it wouldn't be so bad; this hurting folks and leaving them to suffer is what makes it terrible."

"Have you heard from any of our children?" inquired Mrs. Grouse anxiously.

Mr. Grouse nodded. "Most of them have kept to the Green Forest," he said. "and of course they are safer there than they would be outside, where the hunters are. Two or three who have foolishly tried to heed my advice and have left Farmer Brown's land have been terrible frights, and one of "You act to me as if you were afraid," said Mrs. Grouse tartly.
